Musica's Suicide Note Clears Brothers

TAKES BLAME FOR SWINDLE IN STATEMENT

U. S. Investigator Says Note to Become Part of Grand Jury Investigation.

BULLETIN
NEW YORK.—(AP)—F. Donald Coster, born Philip Musica, said in a suicide note made public today that "bankers, lawyers, auditors, appraisers and incompetent high salaried executives have bled McKesson and Robbins white."

(By United Press)
NEW YORK.—Attorney Samuel Reich said he would make public today a suicide note in which Philip Musica (F. Donald Coster), ex-convict president of McKesson and Robbins, Inc., took full blame for the drug firm's $21,000,000 shortage and exonerated his three brothers who are charged with the swindle.

The note was said to "describe the three surviving brothers as 'stooges,' who did not realize that the crude drug department, supposed to contain almost one-fourth of the company's assets, was not only an empty shell but a blind for bootlegging, narcotics and possibly illicit narcotics trading."

Keeps Details Secret.
Reich, who is United States attorney at Bridgeport, Conn., did not say whether Musica's note admitted any of those sideline schemes which are now engaging federal and state investigators, or whether it supplied the missing details of how Coster-Musica was able to disappear in 1920, while under perjury indictment in a poultry racket case, and reappear five years later in Wall Street as Coster, industrial organizing genius.

Reich read excerpts of the note to Gregory F. Noonan, assistant U. S. attorney who is presenting the case to a grand jury as it daily unfolds with new, fantastic details. Two unsolved murder cases now have entered the picture, both of them connected with the poultry racket, and Coster—

Miners, Trapped Mile Under Earth, Rescued By Mates

HANCOCK, Mich.—(AP)—Two miners were alive and well today after 19 terrifying hours nearly a mile beneath the earth's surface where they were trapped by a cave-in in the Cargill mine of the Cooper Range Mining company.

The miners, Tony Paulson, 35, and Oliver Genovesi, 46, both of Painesville where the mine is located, were rescued by a crew of 15 men who had dug and hammered their way through a 50-foot wall of rock and timbers.

The miners told W. H. Schacht, president of the company, that they were working 4,440 feet below the surface at the 44th level of the No. 4 shaft when an air-blast hurled rock and timber supports in front of the shaft entrance, blocking their escape.

The men were not missed until the shift boss made his rounds on a routine check-up. A rescue crew was formed quickly and the men started digging through the wall separating the entombed miners from the shaft.

About half way through the mass of rock and debris, the rescue crew heard the trapped men banging on the side of a metal car which was trapped with them.

Murder Victim

Margaret Martin, above, business school graduate of Kingston, Pa., who disappeared four days ago after a telephone conversation with a man who promised her a job, was found murdered yesterday. An arm protruding from a burlap sack in a creek attracted the attention of a trapper who called police. The girl had been tied with a rope, and then stuffed into the sack. She had been stabbed and strangled.

OLD SIMPSON ON WAY TO OBLIVION

Wreckers Start Razing School, Built in '91, to Make Way for New Junior High.

Although the old John Simpson junior high school building, a landmark on West Fourth street for 47 years, appeared as solid as ever today from the outside, wreckers were demolishing the interior of the third floor of the structure as razing of the building got under way.

At the other side of the city, tractors and shovels were busy excavating for the Johnny Appleseed junior high school which, with the new John Simpson building, will comprise the backbone of the city's $1,000,000 school building program.

Condemned last September by the state fire marshal and closed since then, the third floor of the John Simpson school was a beehive of activity.

APPROVES BONDS

Cleveland Favors $3,000,000 Light Plant Issue.

CLEVELAND.—(AP)—Cleveland's municipal light plant was victorious today by a majority of 53,462 in a special election held to determine whether $3,000,000 in bonds should be issued for expansion of the plant.

The vote was almost two and a half to one in favor of the expansion with the count showing 88,575 in favor of the issue and 35,113 opposed.

Utilities Director Frank D. Wallene said that work would start immediately on the project. The $3,000,000 will be matched by $2,500,000 in WPA funds.

The bitter battle over the bond issue was regarded as a fight between public and private ownership of utilities.

DIES AS CAR UPSETS

LIMA.—(AP)—William J. Smith, 19, of Wapakoneta was killed today when his car overturned on a sharp curve here today. Barbara Ferguson, 19, and Roy Rains, 19, also of Wapakoneta, were hurt slightly.

Bright Sun Grooms Debut of Winter, Year's Shortest Day

Winter arrived officially at 7:14 this morning, and with its arrival on the shortest day of the year, the weatherman promised snow which may last until Christmas. The sun was shining today, however.

The snow-for-Christmas prediction was not a certainty, however, for a rise in temperature Friday may turn the snow to rain and force the youngsters with new sleds to wait awhile to use them.

Today, which will be just nine hours and 26 minutes from sunrise to sunset, marks the end of the sun's southward movement in the skies. Tomorrow it will begin its journey back north again and days will be a few minutes longer. Mansfield's temperature today

ARGENTINA'S REVOLT SLOWS LIMA PARLEY

Seek to Reconcile Differences Over Co-operative Defense Before Adjournment.

SUBMITS OWN PROPOSAL

Argentine Delegates Disrupt Harmony Reached by U. S., Other Republics.

(By Associated Press)

LIMA, Peru.—The issue of co-operative defense for the Americas hung in the balance today between a defiant Argentine declaration thrown dramatically before the Pan-American conference and a second declaration to which the United States and most of the other countries agreed.

Conference leaders worked desperately to reconcile the differences before adjournment Monday or Tuesday.

Withdraws Approval

The new impasse developed when the Argentine delegation withdrew unofficial endorsement of the majority declaration and presented its own resolution upon instructions from its government.

The Argentines held the majority draft to be in effect a military alliance, which the delegation opposed from the start of the conference.

Indications continued that if Argentina refused to alter her position, the other 20 Republics might "let without" her. This, however, would be an extreme procedure and, delegates said, hardly desirable in the interests of Pan-American tranquility.

Despite the startling step by Argentina in publishing her project without submitting it officially to the conference, the Brazilian delegation chief, Afranio Mello Franco, indicated he still hoped for a settlement.

Indicates Suspicion

Argentina specified aggression both from within and without the continents, but put within the continents first. This was an indication, conference spokesmen said, of her continued suspicion that the United States might one day end the good neighbor policy.

The Argentine text omitted intention of the Pan-American conference to provide for their own defense, as contained in the majority text.

The majority resolution contained two classifications of aggression, direct and indirect.

The general comment on the texts was that under the majority declaration continental defense tended to be more a common task, whereas under the Argentine declaration it tended to be individual.

SLAYING MOTIVE STILL MYSTERY

Youth Pleads Guilty to Killing Ohio Business Man.

YOUNGSTOWN.—(AP)—The motive that prompted Chauncey Miller, 22, hitch-hiker, to shoot and kill Henry Fitch, 31, as the latter's automobile neared the suburban Struthers police station still was a mystery today.

Miller pleaded guilty to a murder charge yesterday. He was bound to the grand jury.

Held at Uniontown, Pa., for breaking freight car seals, Miller was returned to Ohio after railroad detectives inquired concerning his record.

Socker, Mayor Who Was Socked

Accused of knocking down Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York in an attack on the mayor on the steps of city hall, James J. Hagan, (left), identified by police as a discharged WPA employee who apparently blamed the mayor for the loss of his job, has been charged with simple assault and committed to a psychopathic ward of a hospital for a hearing Dec. 30. La Guardia fought back, but he was outweighed by 30 pounds. The pugnacious little mayor, shown after the attack, suffered a welt under one eye. He said that "I think it was very fortunate for him that I was not facing him."

Would Your Christmas Be Happier If You Knew--?

Here Are Some Less Fortunate Than You Who Will Receive Yule Baskets From Muster-Cheers.

Would your Christmas be happier if you knew that the woman who is trying to support two children without asking for relief funds had a big well filled basket from the Muster-Cheers? Or that the two lonely old men who live in a shack would have a real Christmas dinner instead of the plain mush they have been eating for days?

Out in the eastern section of Mansfield is a case which is labeled:

STILL SNAGGED

Jurors Remain Deadlocked in Gimp's Trial.

LOS ANGELES.—(AP)—The deadlocked jury deliberating the fate of Martin (the Gimp) Snyder may be polled today by Judge Thomas Ambrose.

The judge indicated if they do not reach a verdict by this evening he will turn them loose and the story of the Gimp and the little lady will have to be told all over again in another trial.

The Gimp is accused, Alderman, present husband of Ruth Eting, the congress and former wife of Snyder. In all, he is charged with five offenses, including kidnapping and violation of the state's gun laws.

The jury of six women and six men returned for the evening shortly after the dinner hour last night, and at that time the official reports were seven to five for conviction after 16 hours of discussion.

REJECTS LENGEL DAMAGE CLAIM

Board Turns Down Request of Canton's Ex-Police Chief.

COLUMBUS.—(AP)—The claim of S. A. Lengel, former Canton police chief, for $15,000 damages as a result of his imprisonment in the Don Mellet murder case 11 years ago, failed today before the state board of sundry claims.

Senator William Foss, (D-Mercer), member of the board, recommended that Lengel be given $3,000, and Rep. Al Kalb (D-Ottawa) voted with him.

Virgil P. Cline, representing the attorney general, voted "No," however, and representatives of the state auditor and finance director did not vote. Four favorable votes would be necessary for approval.

CAPTURES THUG

Policeman Goes To Store For Gloves, Nabs Robber.

BELLAIRE.—(AP)—Patrolman Robert Campbell's forgetfulness netted him a robber suspect today.

Reporting from his "beat," Campbell left his gloves in a local store. Returning to get them, he found a man holding up the store. Campbell disarmed the bandit and took him to jail.

SAVATION ARMY DINNER

The Salvation Army and the Three Muster-Cheers will be host Monday noon to homeless and single men when a Christmas dinner will be served at the hall. Adjutant and Mrs. David R. 5-MAN HOUSING AUTHORITY SET UP FOR CITY

Backenstos, Shultz, Stander, Ward, and Scanlon Named by City, County Officials.

UP TO CONGRESS NOW

Funds Gone, More Must Be Allotted Before Housing Board Can Function.

A five-man Metropolitan Housing Authority to conduct a proposed $2,000,000 low cost housing program in Mansfield had been set up today.

Those named to the newly created authority are P. W. Backenstos, C. N. Shultz, Carl H. Stander, M. Dale Ward, sr., and Joseph Scanlon.

The appointments, made by city and county officials, designated as the appointing authority under the state law, announced at a meeting in the office of the county commissioners late yesterday.

Named to 5-Year Term

Backenstos, former secretary of the old First Savings and Loan company, now retired, was named for a five-year term by Mayor Claude M. Hunter who also appointed Scanlon, president of Delano lodge, Empire steel union, for a one-year term.

Second Ward Councilman C. N. Shultz was appointed for a four-year term by Probate Judge C. J. Anderson. Stander, president of the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company, was named by Common Pleas Judge C. E. Huston to serve for three years, and Ward, also retired, was appointed by the county commissioners for a two-year term.

The opportunity of the new board to function however, will depend on whether the new congress which convenes next month, votes additional funds to the Federal Housing authority.

Federal Funds Exhausted

It was announced in Washington 10 days ago that the $800,000, which had been allocated for slum clearance had been used up but that the new congress would

HUNTER SHOT

Man Wounded by Brother's Gun Near Loudonville.

LOUDONVILLE.—Accidentally shot while hunting yesterday on the family farm north of here, Edwin Krebs, 27, was treated at the office of a physician for 18 shots which entered his right arm, neck and face.

The accident happened while Krebs was rabbit hunting with his brother, Richard, 22. The latter was carrying an old 12-gauge shotgun, which he accidentally set off when a rabbit suddenly jumped up in front of him, he said.

The brothers were about 100 feet apart when the gun went off. After walking a quarter of a mile to the farm, Krebs was taken to the office of Dr. G. B. Fuller in Loudonville for medical attention.

KILLED BY CRANE

LORAIN.—(AP)—Joseph Ethel, father of two small daughters was killed yesterday when his body caught in the cables of a crane he operated at the National Tube company plant.

But these are only typical of the families that will be given Christmas baskets Saturday at the Salvation Army hall when the Three Muster-Cheers make the annual distribution of holiday baskets to Mansfield's unfortunate families. They are typical, too, of the families that may be adopted by individuals and clubs that want to Give-a-Christmas.

A call to Canal 3661 will give you the name of a family that may be "adopted" for the holiday, or a check for $2.25 will enable the Muster-Cheers to give another basket of approximately 38 pounds of food to one of these unfortunate families.

The reason—because there are no projects in operation in the city and there hasn't been any since the Woodland water improvement was completed three weeks ago, WPA officials pointed out today.

Workers on that job were transferred to the county road and ditch project which is now employing approximately 1,000 men.

The city has two storm sewer projects totaling $13,500 ready but they cannot be started until job schedules are received from WPA headquarters in Columbus. The projects already have been approved by WPA but have been

NUDE BODY FOUND STUFFED IN SACK LYING IN CREEK

Pennsy Girl, Abducted by Man Who Offered Job, Strangled; Youth Finds Corpse After Seeing Arm Protruding From Bag.

(By International News Service)

TUNKHANNOCK, Pa.—A sex maniac was sought today for the brutal murder of Margaret Martin, Kingston Business college graduate, whose mutilated body was found trussed in a burlap bag in nearby Keelersburg creek.

Margaret, a 19-year-old beauty whose desire to earn Christmas money prompted her to fall victim to a prospective employer, was kidnapped Saturday morning when she kept an appointment with a mysterious telephone caller who offered a job.

A four-day search for her ended late yesterday when a young trapper, seeking snares beneath a bridge that spans the creek, saw the bag from which an arm protruded in the shallow water.

Inside the bag was the girl's nearly nude body. Slashes and stab wounds were visible on the abdomen and hips. One eye was swollen. Margaret's legs had been doubled and her knees placed under her chin before a heavy clothesline was bound around the body.

After a preliminary examination, Coroner Ray W. Greenwood expressed belief death may have resulted from strangulation. Autopsy surgeons found finger bruises about the girl's throat but must await the results of their autopsy to determine whether she had been criminally attacked.

Dead 24 Hours

They estimated Margaret had been dead at least 24 hours before her body was found in the isolated district about 30 miles northwest of Kingston.

Major William H. Clark headed a group of state police who ran down every available clue although those in hand are meager. The scene of the search was scrutinized thoroughly and residents of the immediate vicinity were being questioned.

From the start Clark held to the theory that Margaret was "snatched" by a sex fiend.

The manner in which the body was bound and stuffed into the bag whose opening had been stitched with a twine convinced him that the murder took place elsewhere. One knot of the twine apparently slipped open, permitting the girl's arm to protrude.

Margaret's father, John, a coal mine foreman and Democratic committeeman in Kingston, said:

HEARS SENTENCE

'Office Wife' Gets Prison Term of 14 to 15 Years.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich.—(AP)—Mrs. Fern Patricia Dull, convicted of manslaughter for the fatal shooting Oct. 17 of the man she considered her common law husband, was sentenced today to serve 14 to 15 years in the Detroit House of Correction.

Circuit Judge Mark D. Taylor denied a motion for a new trial. The blond "office wife" of William Holbrook, attorney whose death on a street car near the Benton Harbor police station ended their nine-year romance, stood before Judge Taylor this morning.

"Have you anything to say?" he asked.

"No," she replied in a weak voice, shaking her head.

The 34-year-old divorcee heard the verdict without show of emotion.

The liner arrived yesterday from the African Congo. During a preliminary search some of the diamonds were said to have been discovered in some baggage.

'Y' REOPENS POOL, CLOSED FOR 10 YEARS

Swimming Becomes Part of Recreation Program; New Equipment Installed.

Swimming became a part of the regular recreation program at the Y. M. C. A. today when the swimming pool was opened for the first time in 10 years.

The pool was closed in the fall of 1928 due to the lack of filtration and chlorinating equipment required by the state department of health.

Announcement of reopening of the pool was made by Dr. C. W. Frickman, chairman of the "Y" physical department. The pool will be open to all Y. M. C. A. members, and will be under supervision of Donald D. Cram, physical director, and Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary.

First Classes Use Pool. Classes meeting today which were the first to have swimming as a part of their "Y" activities were the Friendly Indians, Pioneers and Cadets.

Reopening of the pool was made possible by funds contributed by the board of directors, and members and friends of the "Y." The room in which the pool is located has been redecorated and refurnished, and new filtration and chlorination equipment has been installed.

Work on the pool has been under the supervision of R. N. Calene, chairman of the "Y" house committee. An official opening and a public inspection is being planned by the board of directors.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

There is a wide variety of books to select from if you are still considering getting some youngsters on the gift list a book for Christmas. Some selections for older boys and girls are suggested by the library this week.

An exciting story of a 200-year-old house overlooking Long Island Sound is found in "House By the Sea," written by Hildegard Hout Swift. "The Little American Girl" is another good tale of Sandy Reid who spends a year in Paris in the Quaker International Settlement. The author is Marjorie Hill Allee.

Other suggestions are "Bound Girl of Cobble Hill" by Lois Lenski; "At the Sign of the Golden Compass" by Eric Kelly; "Kiddie Gold" by Hubert Corvelli; "Southwestern Goes North" by Arthur Baldwin and "Iron Duke" by John Tunis.

Musica Children of Tragedy

There is something ironic about this picture of the children of George Musica, taken on the Musica estate at Fairfield, Conn., in 1933, when their father, as "George Dietrich" was ex-spected as a high official of the McKesson & Robbins company. Because they were playing cowboy, the tots were "in the land of make believe" according to the photographer's inscription. Their father was, too.

Steel Workers to Stage Party for Children Tonight

A Christmas party, sponsored by the Delano lodge for children of employees of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, will be held at 7:30 p. m. today at the lodge hall on North Bowman street.

A large Christmas tree has been set up in the hall. An entertainment program also will be presented, Howard Leach, general program chairman, said.

Raymond Hayes will have the role of Santa Claus and will distribute candy, fruit and a gift to each child. He will be assisted by Mrs. W. F. Bell of the women's auxiliary of the lodge.

Leach said the party, the first of its kind to be conducted by Delano members, was financed through several dances sponsored by the lodge during the past month and from $200 raised at a Christmas carnival last week.

FEVER IN OHIO

Find Rocky Mountain Disease Prevalent in State.

COLUMBUS, 22.—The appearance in Ohio of the often fatal Rocky mountain spotted fever was reported by Dr. Finley Van Orsdall, of the state health department.

Six cases have been reported in the last few months. Van Orsdall said. One in Brown county proved fatal while two patients in Athens county and three in Ross county are apparently recovering.

The disease is caused by the bite of a small tick.

"The tick probably came into Ohio on sheep or cattle imported from Montana or Idaho," Van Orsdall said.

Heretofore, the disease has been almost unknown to the state, he said.

At the same time, Van Orsdall reported the number of communicable diseases in the state as of Dec. 9. They were:

DETROIT OFFICIAL SUGGESTS PLAN TO RECOGNIZE SPONSORS OF PIN TEAMS.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

TODAY we will make "John Sponsor" the hero of this space. He has been nominated as "Bowling's Forgotten Man."

Howard W. McCullough, Detroit bowling executive, has a plan to rescue "Bowling's Forgotten Man" from oblivion that may take the form of a national movement.

His plan has come to the attention of the American Bowling Congress, which has jurisdiction over some 600,000 of the country's bowlers. ABC officials think so much of the idea that a page in the current ABC Bulletin, official bowling organ, is devoted to an article by the Detroit on the idea.

McCullough qualifies as an expert on the subject, having had "the privilege" to sponsor bowling teams for many years.

He relates how a group of bowlers approach a small business man at the beginning of a season and tell many glowing stories of the tremendous value to be had from the sponsoring of a bowling team.

"John Sponsor decides to accept the team's proposition and pays the entry fee in a league. Before long, being a progressive type, he feels his team would not only look better but produce more results if they were suitably uniformed. Shirts, and often trousers and jackets are in order.

"Before long various tournaments are announced, entry fees are necessary and John Sponsor again 'digs down'! Coming to know his bowlers more intimately as the season progresses, it is not difficult to induce him to attend the various tournaments.

"Some of the boys on the team have not been working too steadily and after a couple of days away from home, find their funds are running low. In steps John Sponsor once more to help defray hotel bills, incidentals, and even help out on railroad fares."

That's just half of John Sponsor's contribution. McCullough notes, for "sometimes during the course of a season it is possible to procure match games with other teams, necessitating additional expenses as the boys always like to be shooting for a little something."

"Again John Sponsor takes the spotlight, putting up $50 to $100 and if his team is successful, he loses get his original money returned to him. We won't dwell too long on the possibility of certain bowlers who prey on their sponsors for small advances during the season."

After the season is over and prize money, won in tournament and league bowling, is ready for the "melon cutting," the money is apportioned to members of the team, and, with the season over, golf and other activities are ready to claim the bowler's attention, but what of John Sponsor?

"It is entirely probable that John Sponsor gave a swell party at the end of the season which cost some additional money, but what have the bowlers given him in return for his generosity over a season's play?" McCullough asks.

"In some cases a very successful team has brought fine publicity results, but if we were to save five per cent of the bowling teams all over the country accomplished this purpose, we would be stating a high figure."

Tex Carleton Sent to Milwaukee Club

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs baseball roster was reduced by six today—two players sold outright and four others optioned.

Milwaukee of the American association, with whom the Cubs have a working agreement, drew four players. The Brewers paid cash for Tex Carleton, veteran right hander who came to the Cubs in 1935 from the St. Louis Cardinals, and John Bottarini, young catcher. They received Claire Bertram, 21-year-old right hander with Moline last year, and Bobby Mattick, recruit shortstop, on option.

Julian Tubbs, right hander with Selma of the Southeastern league, was sent to Birmingham of the Southern league, and outfielder Joe Cavosie returned to Moline for another season in the Three I league.

Kent Adds to Court Streak

Hangs Up Fifth Straight Win Over Mt. Union.

Kent state and Case School of Applied Science rang up Ohio conference cage victories last night over Mount Union and Oberlin, respectively.

Kent's Golden Flashes kited their season's victory string to five straight in a lively encounter on the home court against Mount's Purple, taking the battle 35 to 27. The Staters were ahead at the half 17-13. Pete Gulgin, Flashes' forward, set the tally tempo with 14 markers.

Case had a leisurely time of it with Oberlin, winning 52 to 34. They held a 31-14 half-time lead. Oberlin threatened early in the second half, caging 10 points against a set of Case reserves. The regulars returned to action and clinched the tilt. Weiss, Case guard, looped 15 points.

The University of Cincinnati, invading "Kamuck," trounced the University of Louisville, 54 to 41. The tide swung to the Bearcats in the second half, Louisville having a 19-10 advantage at the intermission. Jucker, Cincinnati forward, scored a dozen of his 11 points in the second half.

Ohio University breezed in with a 58-14 victory over St. Joseph's at Philadelphia in an intercollegiate game. Desales of Toledo, beating back a second half threat, dribbled Heidelberg's Student Princess, 35 to 32. Desales was in front at the rest period 18-10.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The state conservation council will hold its annual open hearing on inland fishing regulations Jan. 24, with restrictions for 1939 expected to be announced Jan. 25.

Johnny Mize Is Modern Horatio Alger Hero

NEW YORK—(AP)—A modern Horatio Alger hero was unveiled today in the person of Johnny Mize, St. Louis Cardinal first baseman, with the release of official National league miscellaneous averages for 1938.

Like the dime-novel boys who always won out the hard way, Mize climaxed a despairing four-year battle against adversity by leading the league in slugging this season.

He slugged at a .614 clip, or 31 points better than that of little Mel Ott of the Giants who finished second in the total base column.

A product of Demorest Ga., Mize came up to the majors in 1935 after several years of schooling at Rochester in the International league.

Tygers May Sign New Philly and Lima Central for Open Dates.

MANSFIELD high school's 1939 football schedule will include virtually the same foes as it did this year, it was disclosed today by Earl A. Mann, faculty manager of athletics.

Only Roger Clark of Hammond, Ind., and Columbus East will be missing from the schedule, he said.

Resume Old Rivalries.
Rivalries will be resumed next year with Massillon, defending state champion; Canton McKinley, Sandusky, Akron West, Akron Kenmore, Shelby and Ashland. Places held on the Mansfield

Denny, Confident He'll Win If He Gets Chance.

SARASOTA, Fla.—(AP)—Dennis Galehouse is confident he will win plenty of ball games for the Boston Red Sox next season if the club gives him regular work.

The former Cleveland pitcher traded recently in a deal for Ben Chapman, believes lack of a regular assignment was the main reason for his failure to live up to expectations with the Indians.

"Cleveland always had an over-supply of pitchers," Galehouse said, "and I didn't get as much regular work as I felt I should to reach top form. The Red Sox need pitching," he asserted, "and I believe I'll get it there."

card by the Indiana and Columbus schools last season will probably be filled by New Philadelphia and Lima Central, according to Mann.

Mann stated the game pending with the Lima school depends on whether it will consent to play on a Saturday afternoon. The Lima school has played all its games at night in the past.

If New Philadelphia is signed, the Mansfield schedule will be strengthened to some extent. The Tuscarawas county school has been a power in northeastern Ohio grid circles for many years.

All of the games definitely scheduled are billed for Stadium field except the Massillon affray. An attempt will be made to play New Philadelphia and Lima Central, if they are signed, away from home.

Open With West.

The Tygers will again open the season with Akron West, Sept. 16. The Massillon game will be the second on the schedule. The next two Saturdays remain unfilled, pending decisions on New Philadelphia and Lima Central contracts. Games with Sandusky, Shelby, Akron Kenmore, Ashland and Canton McKinley follow in that order. The incomplete schedule follows:

Sept. 16—Akron West, here.
Sept. 23—Massillon, there.
Sept. 30—Open.
Oct. 7—Open.
Oct. 14—Sandusky, here.
Oct. 21—Shelby, here.

Quintets Tied For Lead Vie

Rex, Blue Goose Club Meet at Settlement Friday.

The tie that holds the Rex Billiards and Blue Goose Sohioans in first place in the Senior A league at the friendly House will be broken Friday night when they meet.

Both quintets are undefeated in league play and the winner Friday will gain the undisputed lead. The Cuemen won the title last season, but apparently, have a dangerous rival in the Sohioan club, which is composed entirely of Madison high graduates.

Preceding the all-important game will be tilts between the Racemelon Farm and Musille Cigars and Augustine Canfields and Miller Dairys. The Farm-Cigar game goes on at 6:45 p. m.

These games have been moved back from Thursday night because of a Christmas program being staged in the gymnasium.

1938 The Year In Sports

Ralph Guldahl Only Champ to Retain Title.

By DILLON GRAHAM
NEW YORK—(AP)—The stoop-shouldered national open king, Ralph Guldahl, strode magnificently on through 1938 as other golf champions found the pace too fast.

Only Guldahl retained his crown in a year that saw Uncle Sam lose the Walker Cup for the first time, yet saw Americans gain both the British and Canadian amateur titles.

Guldahl, who scored an all-time low of 281 in copping the national open a year ago, successfully defended his title at Denver by beating back the determined challenge of handsome Dick Metz. Guldahl's winning score was 284.

Diminutive Paul Runyan triumphed in the professionals' closed championship, handing Sam Snead an 8-and-7 lacing, the most decisive in the tournament's history. But Sammy still had a big year. He was the largest money-winner and his share of the swag, around $20,000, was more than any pro golfer had ever made.

Freckled-faced Patty Berg, twice previously a finalist, won the women's title. Wearing a pair of mannish trousers, she beat defending Champion Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, 6 and 5. The triumph culminated a great competitive year for the Minneapolis miss, who authored a fine medal play record in southern winter tournaments and won several mid-west events.

Things Have Changed In Richland League

Ontario, Former Power In County Circuit, Seeks First Victory of Season at Bellville Tonight.

THINGS have changed in the Richland county league. In past seasons, Ontario high boasted of the most feared club in the circuit. But at this writing the Ontarians are the only quintet in the county without a victory.

However, despite the bad start, Ontario followers believe their team will hit its stride in the near future, if not tonight.

Tonight Coach Orville Kibler's cagemen got to Bellville, which has only one victory to show for its efforts in league play to date.

A victory for Ontario will send it into a tie with Union for fourth place. Bellville can take an undisputed hold on fourth place if it triumphs.

An interesting ball game should be staged by the two county league teams tonight. The green Ontario quintet has shown constant improvement, while Bellville has been holding its own very well.

This is the only county league game billed tonight, but two are on schedule Friday night. The Friday night games involve Madison and Butler, who are tied for the lead.

Madison, which took the measure of Lucas Tuesday, will take on the third place Lexington team on its own court. Butler goes to Union.

MACHINE SHOP CAGERS WIN FINAL TOURNEY TILT

Led by Henke and Henry, who scored 12 and 10 points, respectively, the Machine Shop defeated the Auto Shop cagers, 26 to 23, in the final game of an inter-shop tournament at Senior high yesterday. Grandon led the losers with 10.

FORMER BUCYRUS COACH PILOTS GALION CAGERS

Ike Nussbaum, former Bucyrus high school coach, has been named basketball coach of the North Electrics of Galion. Nussbaum is now employed as an engineer at the company. The team's lineup includes Junior Hubley, John Schmelker, Joe Schmelker, Joe Casey, John Yeigmer, John Patterson, Homer Shafer, Jack Callander, Paul Smith and Red Maizon. Callander, Smith and Maizon are the only players under six feet, with Shafer the tallest at six-four-and-a-half. J. M. Casey is manager of the club.

Shelby Also Points For Initial Win.

FRIDAY night will also feature two N. C. O. contests, one at Shelby and the other at Galion. The Whippets engage the undefeated Mt. Vernon club, while the Orangemen face Bucyrus.

Shelby has yet to score its first victory, but the Whippets are showing up stronger each week. It faces trouble Friday, however, and may find it too tough to win.

Galion was forced to exert itself against Crestline Tuesday, but should have enough in reserve to topple the Redmen.

Johnsville plays at Iberia. Polk at Ruggles, Jeromesville at Savannah and Nova at Perrysville in other Friday games in the immediate vicinity.

HALLABRIN, DIALS GET OSU FRESHMAN AWARDS

John Hallabrin and Elmer Dials of Mansfield were included among the 40 freshmen football players of Ohio State who have been awarded sweaters and numerals for their work on the gridiron this year. The awards were made on the recommendation of Freshman Coach Fritz Mackey.

Red Sox Send Eric McNair To White Sox

Trade Expensive Star for Light-Hitting Berger.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Disillusioned and dispirited, young Tom Yawkey appears to be taking a sadistic delight in tearing apart the Boston Red Sox team on which he spent upward of $1,000,000 a few years ago, and which finally rewarded him with second place in the American league last season.

The trade which sent infielder Eric McNair to the Chicago White Sox in exchange for Boze Berger lopped off one more of the galaxy of stars for whom Yawkey handed old Connie Mack an estimated $500,000. The members of "Yawkey's Folly" are being replaced by inexpensive youngsters.

Yawkey said last spring he would give his "Millionaires" one more fling, and thence forward would develop his own players. The past season must have convinced him that a young and great team would be needed to overhaul the Yankees.

Of three expensive pitchers purchased from Connie Mack, Rube Walberg and Johnny Marcum have disappeared from the big show, and Lefty Grove probably pitched his final nine-inning game last season. Wes Ferrell, another prize of the biggest spending spree in baseball history, is winding up as a relief pitcher for the Yankees.

Yawkey bought four of Mack's infielders, and the only one left is the veteran Jimmy Fox, who made a sensational comeback the past campaign to win the American league batting crown. McNair has gone to the White Sox, Third-Baseman Pinky Higgins recently was traded to Detroit, and Max Bishop retired.

Incidentally, the White Sox might have obtained a non-reporter in yesterday's deal, for McNair recently was quoted as saying he didn't care about playing baseball unless he could return to the A's and play under the kindly Connie Mack.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Cincinnati baseball club announced today the receipt of the signed contract of Charley English, third baseman, who performed last season in the Pacific Coast league.

Bow By 38-31 Margin

Murphy's Men Again Play Fine Ball But Get Off to Slow Start on Road.

By CHARLES MARTIN
MANSFIELD High's courtiers in their search for victory last night when they bowed to the undefeated Bulldogs of Canton McKinley by a 38 to 31 count on the Canton city auditorium hardwood before 1,200 spectators.

The Tygers, fighting desperately to jump back into the win column after two straight setbacks, were unable to throw their passing attack into high gear for any lengthy period and as a result never held the lead. It was the first time this season the Mansfielders have failed to hold the upper hand in the opening half, at least.

Rally Comes Too Late.

In the fourth period, the Tygers rallied to outscore their rivals, 15 to 5, but the huge margin piled up by the Bulldogs in the other quarters was too large to overcome.

The Tygers set up numerous shots in the opening half but couldn't locate the basket, and their inability to dump in the points in the early minutes of the affair gave the Bulldogs an opportunity of marking up a commanding lead.

The Mansfield defense, spotty at times in the first two chapters, worked smoothly after the intermission and broke up the Bulldogs' passing attack most of the time.

Tommy Scott and Jack Lyons turned in stellar roles for the Tygers in the second half. They were continually intercepting Canton passes and moving the ball under the basket for easy shots. The two youngsters collected seven points apiece in the third and fourth stanzas to lead the Mansfield rally.

Canton started hitting from all angles and moved into a 14 to 5 lead in the first chapter. Mansfield outscored the Bulldogs by a point in the second frame, but trailed 21 to 13, at half-time. Canton turned on the steam after the intermission and boosted their advantage to 33 to 16 going into the final period.

And then Mansfield's fast-breaking attack began to function and

Roy Craig Sets Scoring Tempo

Spills 668 Pins In City Class A Doubles League; Funston, Cleckners Roll Big Scores.

ROY CRAIG, who has not been bowling as regularly as in the past, had a big night in the City Class A Doubles League at the Meder alleys last night when he cracked the timber for a 668 count. Bowling with John as his partner, Craig blasted out scores of 215, 213 and 233 to lead the way to three victories over Weber and Reed with a high 1231 total. Weber shot a 631.

Funston came through with a 649 total as he and his partner, Joe Cheney, whipped up a 1207, which was good for two wins over Sonny Meder and Grohol. Winnie Cleckner, with a 628, and Forysthe split 1227 pins to take a pair of tilts from Applan and Burdette.

In the other match, Dale Cleckner rolled a 628, but he and his teammate, McKinley, dropped two games to Shepherd and Hanrahan.

SCORING in the Westinghouse league was led by the Order Service keglers, who punched out a 2635. Heiser of the Order Service set the individual tempo with a 617, while Hanrahan contributed a 607.

Perrine of the Refrigeration Machine rolled a 607 and Forman of Shipping No. 1 came through with a last game of 254 and a 604.

the Tigers dropped into points with ease.

Nick Roman and Tim Triner, the latter probably the outstanding performer on the court last night, were the big guns of Coach Bup Reardon's classy outfit. Roman collected 12 points to share individual scoring honors with Lyons, and Triner added 10.

Roman Out On Fouls.

Roman, lanky center, one of the fastest men in the Canton lineup, went out in the third chapter on fouls, but his teammates didn't seem to miss him.

Triner, flashy guard, scored three difficult side shots in the early minutes of the game to help his team grab its early advantage.

Don Rose, Mansfield substitute, played most of the game at a guard post, and turned in a creditable performance.

Jack Dugger, overanxious to score baskets for his team, tallied one for the Canton club in the third period. After two of his teammates had missed shots at the wrong basket he dumped in a rebound.

The Mansfield Reserves also met defeat last night at the hands of the Canton seconds in the liminary attraction. The final score was 31 to 28. Canton took the lead in the opening chapter and never trailed. Coach Harry Mehoock's lads cut the lead to one point in the last period, but were unable to push ahead.

CLEVELAND BARONS BREAK PHILADELPHIA ICE JINX

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—A two-year-old jinx lay shattered today—smashed by the flying blades of the Cleveland Barons of the International-American Hockey league.

The Barons routed the Philadelphia Ramblers, 5 to 1, in the Ramblers' bandbox rink where the Clevelanders had been trying unsuccessfully for two years to win.

The victory extended the Barons' unbeaten streak to seven straight.

WHIZZER WHITE MAKES GOOD ON PREDICTIONS

CHICAGO—(AP)—Making good on predictions that he would stand out in the pro game as he had in college, Byron "Whizzer" White was revealed today as the leading ground gainer in the National professional football league.

The talented young backfield star from Colorado, playing what he insists was his only season of pro football before going to England as a Rhodes scholar, reeled off 567 yards in 152 attempts for an average of 3.73 yards per try in the season just closed.

Butler Trims Amity

Runs Winning Streak to Six Games When Ward Provides Deciding Points.

BUTLER high school's winning streak on the court was extended to six games at Amity last night when Coach Bob Burget's Bulldogs turned back their hosts, 38 to 34, in the toughest struggle the Richland Counties faced this season.

The undefeated defending county tournament champions were forced to come back in the final 50 seconds to eke out a victory over the Knox county representatives.

First for Amity.

It was the first defeat of the season for Amity, which had registered five straight victories prior to last night's tilt.

Wendall Ward, one of the holdovers from last spring's title team, provided the points that kept Butler's string intact. He tossed a pair of free throws through the hoop in the final seconds to win the game after Thrust had knotted the score with a throw from the foul line.

Butler fought an uphill battle virtually all the way. The Bulldogs went into the final period trailing 29 to 22, but staged a rally that completely bewildered the Amity boys.

The Burgett men outscored Amity, 14 to 5, in the fourth frame to clinch the verdict.

Butler held a slim 9 to 8 advantage at the end of the first period, but the hosts jumped ahead in the next quarter to hold an 18 to 17 lead at the intermission.

Adds to Lead.

Amity caught the Bulldogs off stride in the third period to run its lead to seven points before the start of the fourth quarter.

State, Northwest'n Get Tests Tonight

CHICAGO—(AP)—Events tonight may tell a little better which way the wind will blow for Ohio State and Northwestern in the forthcoming Big Ten basketball race.

Untested Ohio opens a Pacific coast tour at Seattle against the University of Washington. This game may furnish the tip-off on what may be expected of the Buckeyes when Conference competition starts Jan. 7. Northwestern, which has shown progressive improvement despite three straight defeats, plays Notre Dame.

CENTRAL OHIO ALL-STARS SHOVE OFF FOR FLORIDA

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Twenty-four central Ohio all star high school football players and their coaches, Mike Hagely of Columbus North and Jim Scott of Grandview, left Columbus today for St. Petersburg, Fla., where they will play the St. Petersburg high eleven next Monday. The Ohio party will reach St. Petersburg Friday morning.

TINSLEY, HUSTON SHARE PASS RECEIVING HONORS

NEW YORK—(AP)—Gaynell Tinsley of the Chicago Cardinals and Don Huston of the Green Bay Packers shared honors as the National Professional Football league's best pass receiver of the 1938 season.

Tinsley caught 41 aeriels to tie the league mark set by Huston in 1937. Huston's 548 yards gained on aeriels, nine touchdowns and 54 points topped the circuit in those departments. Tinsley broke another league mark when he caught a pass from Dougal Russell and carried it for a total gain of 98 yards. This bettered the 95-yard mark he set a year ago on a heave from Pat Coffee.

JACK DOYLE ESTABLISHES TROJANS AS FAVORITES

NEW YORK—(AP)—Explaining everything with the simple and succinct statement that Southern California was coming along fast at the finish of the season and Duke didn't play enough tough games, the headquarters of Jack Doyle, the betting commissioner, today announced that the Cali-formia eleven has been established as a 5 to 14 favorite over the Blue Devils for the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena Jan. 2.

On other major bowl games, the latest quotations are: Sugar Bowl, New Orleans—Texas Christian 5 to 14 over Carnegie Tech. Orange Bowl, Miami—Tennessee 1 to 3 over Oklahoma. Cotton Bowl, Dallas—St. Marys 2 to 5 over Texas Tech.

BELLEVUE STREAK ENDS

RAILS, SPECIALS EXCEPTIONS IN LOWER MARKET

Profit Taking in Aircrafts and Further Tax Selling Are Rallying Handicaps.

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK—Quiet buying in rails and specialties offset lagged tendencies displayed by most other stock market groups today. Profit taking in aircrafts, in addition to further tax swapping, acted as a rallying handicap, brokers said. Gains of fractions to around a point were posted for Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Illinois Central, Delaware & Hudson, Johns-Manville, Union Carbide, General Motors, Anaconda and American Telephone. Bonds and commodities were irregular.

Helpful was the final business report of Secretary of Commerce Roper which said that while 1938 shows a decline in some lines compared with 1937, the year-end position is much more reassuring than the perspective at the end of last year.

In trade circles forecasts were heard that dollar sales volume of variety stores in December this year might top the same period a year ago. In the 1937 month spending in this field was even larger than in the final month of 1936 when department stores made the best showing for the revival period.

WAVE IN MARCH
TAKES AUSTRIA

Flood Waters Roar on West Coast of U. S.; 5-Suit Bridge Makes Bow.

By VOLTA TORREY
AP Feature Service Writer

Herbert Hoover, touring Europe last March, found every problem save the auto-parking problem "acute."

Political Poner No. 1 was Austria. And Adolf Hitler, the corporal who had kept on fighting finally to win the World War, boldly extended Germany's frontier clear around Austria's 32,377 square miles and 6,760,233 people.

Diplomats often had said the League of Nations would be "a real thing" only when it could alter Europe's map. It hadn't. And its disciples were dismissed in the spring of '38 as "idealists," while dealers with dictators were dubbed the "realists."

"Twas even suspected that Der Fuehrer might accept a crown when he rode into Vienna in a six-wheeled motor chariot, accompanied by his Prussian police and Jew-haters, booming "Sieg Heil!"

Shadow and Substance. And Berlin's Unter den Linden was decorated, when he returned, with a banner that read: "Fuehrer, your Sudeten Germans (in Czechoslovakia) also are waiting."

France's deputies upheld their shaky government, 439 to 2, in a policy of standing by Czechoslovakia. But America's ex-embassy to the Reich, William E. Dodd predicted: "Great Britain won't do anything if Germany invades Czechoslovakia."

Poland, meanwhile, provided March's secondary scare—by suddenly getting tough about little Lithuania's refusal to recognize the Pole's forcible seizure of the Vilna territory 18 years previous. Lithuania gave in.

Warbirds left 872 dead, 2,000 wounded, 10,000 homeless in Barcelona on a single week-end. Japan's parliament passed a "fascistic" mobilization bill. Russia tried and executed more bigwigs. Mexico seized foreign oil properties valued at $400,000,000. And Brazil's police uncovered a cache of Nazi daggers.

In Stormy California. Americans sang "Ti Pi Tin" and tried five-suit bridge decks, but here, too, it was a stormy March: Scores died and damage was set at $80,000,000 when rains sent floods ripping through southern California, marooning many, disrupting transportation, forcing Hollywood stars into real-life hero roles. Tornadoes swirled fiercely through the Midwest and south.

Richard Whitney, ex-president of the N. Y. Stock Exchange, pled guilty to thefts that shocked Wall Street, declaring: "I fully realize that certain of my actions have been wrong. I am determined to meet the consequences."

Tribulations of TVA.

TVA's quarrelsome directors were summoned to the White House. "If this love child of the administration, TVA, is indeed illegitimate, no shotgun wedding can give it either a fair name or unblemished reputation," thundered New Hampshire's Sen. Bridges. And the president ousted Chairman Arthur E. Morgan for failing to sustain "grave and libelous charges of dishonesty and want of integrity" against his fellow directors.

Robert H. Jackson became solicitor general. Thurman Arnold, "Folklore of Capitalism" author, succeeded him as head trust-buster. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt helped Amarillo, Texas, honor mothers-in-law. Greta Garbo and Leopold Stokowski were reported seeing Italy together. Three Albanian princesses looked America over. And the obituaries of Col. Edward House, Gabriele d'Annunzio and Clarence Darrow were published.

Camera Shots Tell Dramatic Story of Outstanding Events of the Year.

By F. A. RESCH
AP Executive News Photo Editor
NEW YORK—Selecting "great" news pictures or "best news pictures" is like judging a beauty contest.

No two people would give the blue ribbon to the same blond.

So many exceptional news pictures are taken in the course of any year that it is not possible to sift them down to a handful of copy which stands out head and shoulders above the crowd from every point of view.

To do so would be rank injustice to the many photographers who produce top-notch copy consistently under favorable and unfavorable conditions alike.

Camera Snaps History.
Events in Europe naturally produced many outstanding news pictures in 1938. Not one, but several of them probably will go into history books. Cameras followed epochal events as effectively as restrictions would allow.

Climatic copy from the sequence of crises came from the Munich conference. The picture of Europe's "big four" side by side probably was the most significant picture, as such, but another and more informal view of them perhaps caught the "spirit of appeasement" more effectively than any other.

In America, sports always make for many outstanding pictures. A score or more of truly remarkable sports pictures could be selected from the production of 1938, including not only pictures made at headline events but pictures made during run-of-mine sports events as well.

Fight of the Year.
One Associated Press picture captured in a single exposure the whole spirit of the windup of the major fight of the year—Max Schmeling on the floor, the referee waving Joe Louis to his corner as the unofficial towel was tossed in to the ring after less than a round of fighting which resulted in dozens of excellent action pictures.

Among the unique stories of 1938 was the spectacle of a young man perched on a Manhattan hotel window ledge while a nation awaited his next move. As he jumped to his death, one of the year's most exceptional news pictures was taken.

Seldom has the task of covering a comprehensive news story in pictures been as great or as hazardous as the job of picturing results of the late September storm extending from Long Island to Vermont. Symbolizing the hurricane's aftermath as well as the plight of survivors was a picture taken in Rhode Island showing storm victims in front of buildings tossed topsy-turvy by the wind. Many other pictures made during and after the storm were equally effective.

Guns and F. D. R.
On the U. S. S. Houston an Associated Press photographer one day last July took a picture of President Roosevelt in the shadows of the ship's big guns. The result was a most impressive view of a nation's chief executive in unusual environment. Taken from any other angle, it might have been much less effective.

Six other pictures of 1938—60 others—could be appraised similarly, and given top rating by any criterion. Those mentioned merely are typical of the many news pictures of 1938 which represented not only exceptional workmanship on the part of photographers but which told a story in picture form with a maximum effectiveness.

It involves no hazard to suggest that with this continuously improving news photography, each succeeding year should produce more and more noteworthy news pictures—regardless of those uncontrollable "breaks" which so often play such a big part in determining whether pictures are possible in the first place.

These Five Pictures Were Tops Among 1938 News Shots

STRONG MEN of Europe were caught by the camera not in stiff, formal pose, but in a moment of comparative relaxation as the historic Munich "appeasement" conference got under way. Men smiled and shook hands as Czechoslovakia was about to submit to a major operation as a means of keeping peace. L. to R. Goering, Hitler, Schmidt, Ciano, Mussolini, Daladier, Chamberlain.

A FRACTION OF A SECOND sooner, or a moment later, and this picture could not have been made. It caught the climax of a situation which had kept newspaper readers on edge for hours as young John Warde pondered his fate and finally leaped to death from a New York hotel window ledge.

HAD THE PHOTOGRAPHER stepped a few feet to the right or left, he would have missed the composition which "made" this picture of President Roosevelt. This exemplifies the results which are achieved when a news photographer is in the right place at the right time.

TO GET THIS aftermath picture of Rhode Island's hurricane scene, it was necessary to employ exceptional camera technique resulting in perfect focus of the people in the foreground as well as the damaged building in the background. Use of two flashbulbs plus a time exposure turned the trick.

THE TOWEL didn't mean anything officially, but alert photography caught it in mid-air as the Schmeling-Louis bout ended with the German challenger on the floor and Joe Louis walking to his corner—the winner. A second later the picture was gone.

TRUCK DRIVER BUILDS MATCH VILLAGES AS UNUSUAL HOBBY

(By United Press)
ST. LOUIS—Jerry Jaros, a 25-year-old truck driver, has the soul of an artist, the skill of an architect and great patience.
He builds, not just match houses, but match villages. Some day, if he keeps up his present construction pace, he'll have a complete match city.
Jaros took up match-house making two years ago as a hobby. Since then, in his spare time, he has built four bungalows, a school, church, filling station, saloon, theater, bank and garage.
His only tools are matches, a razor blade and glue. He does not use a sustaining wall for any of his structures, and he shuns pins or nails.
Jaros achieves a striking realistic effect in all his buildings by coloring his matches. He does not use paint, but burns and scorches them various shades while they're still in the box.
With artistic detail and symmetry, Jaros furnishes his church with three crosses, pews, an altar and a pipe organ. His saloon has a bar, stools and booths. His bank has teller cages.
Jaros' bungalows have shaded "shingled" roofs, window shutters and shades, chimneys, doorsteps, doorknobs, and even a residence number. His schoolhouse (his most painstaking effort; it required 3,250 matches, while his bungalows average 1,300 and his church took 1,010) has a fence of match

State Hospital Head Files Civil Service Appeal.
COLUMBUS, OHIO—A petition that certain portions of removal charges filed against him by State Welfare Director Margaret Allman be stricken from the record, has been filed with the state civil service commission by Dr. E. A. Baber, superintendent of Longview State hospital.
However, Ralph Emmons, a civil service commissioner, declined to immediately release Baber's request saying that the commission should act on it before making it public.
Removal proceedings were filed with the commission by Mrs. Allman on Dec. 8, a month after she had placed Dr. Baber on the suspended list.
In her petition, Mrs. Allman charged "inefficiency and gross neglect."

LUZ REBELS AGAINST 'CUT, DRIED' CAUCUS

Richland Representative Hits Election of Cleveland as Minority Leader.

Election of Michael A. Feighan of Cleveland over A. Lee Fair of Holmes county as Democratic minority leader of the next state legislature yesterday at Columbus irked Ralph C. Lutz, Richland county representative, who described the session as "cut and dried."

"I was surprised to come here to Columbus to find the caucus cut and dried," Lutz asserted. "It would do no harm to have a good caucus fight. Just because a few leaders wanted Feighan there is no reason why others should go along."

Lutz had seconded the nomination of Fair who was defeated by Feighan by a vote of 27 to 8. Fair who was made a candidate against his wishes, moved that Feighan be elected unanimously after the vote and the motion passed.

Fair was chosen assistant floor leader, or the party "whip."

Cleveland Names Fair.

Lody Huml of Cleveland, who had been mentioned as a candidate for minority leader, submitted Fair's name for that post. Kenneth Petri of Galion also had been considered as a possible candidate.

Also aroused by Feighan's election, Huml asserted that "We should bring in a spirited democracy and not be forced by some leaders to vote for certain persons."

Before the caucus adjourned, Rep. George Harter of Akron urged all the present legislative members to attend a special session of the legislature which Gov. Martin L. Davey said would be called for Dec. 30 to 31.

Harter said he was informed Republican house members did not plan to attend and were trying to persuade Democrats to stay away in an effort to block confirmation of two important state appointments.

Some legislative observers have expressed belief that if a quorum of the house is not present for the special session any confirmations of executive appointments made by the senate would be invalid.

TAG SALE SLOW

Only 1-10 of County's Dogs Have 1939 Licenses.

With 1939 tags purchased for less than one-tenth of Richland county's dogs, William Miller, county dog warden, said today he will sell tags until 4 p. m. Saturday in the office of County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe at the courthouse.

Miller said the sale of tags has been slow, and indications point to a last-minute rush unless dog owners buy their tags now. More than 5,000 tags were sold last year in the county.

The state law provides for a penalty of $1 per tag for every one sold after the deadline, Jan. 20. Owners who permit their dogs to roam without a tag after that date are subject to a fine from $10 to $25, it was pointed out.

Tags cost $1 for male and spayed female dogs and $3 for females.

MILLERSBURG — Alfred P. Krebs, 23, of Wayne county, was fined $25 and costs in Justice Wayne Stilwell's court for hunting game without a license. The court suspended $15 of the fine. Krebs was arrested by Game Protector John D. Farver.

CHANCELLOR DOLLFUSS' WIDOW PUTS OFF PLAN TO VISIT U. S.

(By International News Service)

LONDON — Frau Almine Dollfuss, tragic widow of the assassinated Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria, today decided to postpone her projected visit to the United States.

Temporarily declining the invitation of her two brothers to join them in the United States before next spring, Frau Dollfuss has told them she likes England so much that she feels she should remain here for some time longer.

Hidden away in a small cottage in the heart of Wales, she has been able to find peace and tranquility and recover from the shock of her husband's death and her flight from Austria at the time of German occupation.

She wishes to forget Austria, and bows her head when it is mentioned. She prefers to think of the future, and speak of her two children and the beauties of Wales.

"I want to attend to the education of my children," Frau Dollfuss said during a visit here. "They will soon be going to a regular school in Wales, and that means I will have to defer my visit to my two brothers in America for a long time."

"It is so nice and peaceful here, and it has fulfilled all my hopes."

If anybody has time to read these busy Christmas holidays, the Mansfield Public library has a number of new fiction and non-fiction selections to appeal to the lovers of books. "Pinkney's Garden" by Stephen Southwold, one of the new ones this week-end, depicts the life of a charming English family whose struggle for their land against the encroachment of the sea was finally rewarded.

Francis Brett Young's new novel, "Dr. Bradley Remembers," revives the past life of an old English doctor preparing to retire after 50 years of devoted service. "Dead Ned" by John Masfield is the story of a young 18th century Englishman, Ned Mansell, who is unjustly accused of murder, imprisoned at Newgate, and hanged.

Other fiction includes "Voices in the Square" by Abbe; "Gracie Allen Murder Case," VanDine; "Coming From the Fair," Hoult; "The Daughter," Breuer; "Testament," Hutchinson; "Johnny Pyle and the Fool-Killer," Benet; "Storevik," Geijerstam.

Gravel Under Boulder Worth $70 On First Test.

PALMER, Alaska.—(AP)—A poke under an unlikely looking boulder was worth a small fortune to John E. Carlson.

Carlson, head of the Tunnel Mining company of Cantwell, says a large part of the season's final gold cleanup of $50,000 came from beneath a boulder the miners nearly overlooked.

"The boulder was about two feet off bedrock," Carlson says. "It didn't look as though there was anything of value under the rock but we took a pan as a test and the one pan was worth $70. Then we took all the gravel from under the rock, using props to hold the boulder up."

CHAPTER 23

It has been said by some wise person that everybody ought to get mildly hurt or sick once a year. Just enough to spend a few days in bed, thinking.

The human animal dislikes to think. If we can be up and doing, physically, we think as little as possible. If we are forced to lie among the pillows with only a vase of flowers to stare at, we sometimes think to avoid boredom. Also, if we are not in actual pain, the thinking is likely to be of good quality.

Dr. Thornton Holgate was no longer in pain.

In fact, he wanted to get up. He had actually gotten out of bed at 7 a. m. this Thursday morning, and started dressing, before a nurse caught him. She put him back down at once.

"But I am all right," he protested.

"You will be all right when Dr. McGill says you are," the nurse countered, and that was that. History shows no tyrants worse than trained nurses.

There were fresh flowers, and so he opened the envelope that came with them.

The little note, with long, slender, slanting hand-writing, should have thrilled him deeply. But instead of that, he was impressed by the obvious fact that the script was affected, unnatural.

It enabled him to conjure up several mental pictures of Geraldine "Peaches" Pomeroy. He wondered how she got that name. "Peaches" sounds cute. Fresh, outdoorish and clean. But Geraldine—

He gave a lot of thought to her—serious, analytical thought. It shocked him some to realize that his ardor for her had cooled. He remembered her being drunk at the dance. He remembered her conversation on the way to Galveston Sunday afternoon—she had delighted in telling off-color jokes. He envisioned her lips, which could be so pretty, or could be so pouty. He wondered— it would be pleasurable to kiss them. Undoubtedly, he decided. Or probably. It was as if he were having a silent argument between himself and himself.

"But your judgment is improving now," his other self answered. "She is not what you thought. You have had a chance to know her more intimately."

"She is kind to me in the hospital, though. I must not be unfair in judging her."

His inner argument might have become more violent if a nurse had not popped in.

"You have a caller," she announced. "Mrs. Davis."

"Oh! Please—may I see her?" Dr. Holgate brightened perceptibly.

"Surely. Probably you can even go home tomorrow. If you behave."

In her concern for him, Sara Sue assumed that he was still dangerously ill. She overlooked his brightness. Many people are awed by hospitals anyway, and by the fact of a patient's being in bed. She was half an hour learning that "Thorny" Holgate was practically well, but eventually they were able to converse naturally without restraint.

"It surely is wonderful to see you getting well," she assured him, repeating it.

"Thank you again, madam. I mean—Sara Sue. I have forgotten my lessons, I fear, ha ha!"

She scowled at him in mock reproach. "You should be punished! But then, you were making progress, when the accident came. I'm real proud of you, Thorny. You actually took Peaches to Galveston! And now you are a hero, and so she thinks still more of you. You could hardly have done better. You are my star pupil."

"I do not wish to be referred to as a hero," he declared, simply.

"I'm very sorry, my dear professor, but your wishes have nothing to do with that!"

"I beg pardon?"

"Haven't you seen the papers, Thorny? No. Probably they have kept you quiet, of course. Well, Mister Thornton Holgate, Ph. D. you're a hero, whether you like it or not, so there! The newspapers—"

She told him all about it. And to verify it, she went into the hospital reading room and brought him recent copies of The Galveston News and of the Houston papers, showing him not only the details of the rescue, but the photographs as well.

He glanced at them with mounting concern, looking from one to the other.

"B-but this is most lamentable! What shall I do? Look!"

"Calm down, Thorny. I told you you were a hero, whether you like it or not."

"But my dear Mrs. Davis—" "I am not your dear Mrs. Davis. I am Sara Sue. Just as I was before you became famous. You can't go high-hat on me now!"

She felt like bedeviling him. The poor man was truly indignant at the notoriety that had centered on him. He became so disturbed that Sara Sue felt concerned for his health, but she succeeded in convincing him that it would not be detrimental either to reputation or dignity. "After all, an accident is an accident, silly," she laughed at him "and most people would be delighted to find themselves heroes. People will say you are being affected by your act this way, Thorny."

He hadn't thought of that. Sara Sue knew she had him whipped into line then. He would take his fame as befitting a modest gentleman, without too much ado about it. She, of course, knew he was honest; but a careless public might misunderstand.

"The best thing to do, Thorny, when people ask you about the accident, is to offer no protests, but talk as little as you can. Admit that you were badly frightened in the water, if you were, and—"

"I was! Indeed I was. I thought I should die, Sara Sue!"

"We are all so happy you didn't, Thorny! We—Peaches—will be proud of you. You should have no difficulty making love to her now. But remember that I am still waiting to help you every way I can."

"Ah, yes, yes, to be sure. I appreciate what you have done." He said that with no enthusiasm, and was staring vacantly at a wall. "I shall, of course, want to—ah, resume my endeavors as quickly as possible."

"Of course, Thorny," Sara Sue barely murmured the agreement. She bit her lip, and arose to pull a wrinkled spread over him more smoothly. "Do you—find her—still wonderful, and everything?"

"I beg pardon?" He turned to look at her again.

"I mean, aren't you so happy that your romance is progressing as you had hoped? Peaches is—very lovely. Pretty. And I am sure you are worthy of her, too, Thorny!"

"Oh! Well—"

The conversation wasn't moving at all smoothly.

Thornton Holgate was still doing some deep thinking. Before Sara Sue had arrived he had begun to argue with himself about Peaches Pomeroy. And now, with Sara Sue here, the side that didn't like Peaches seemed to have gained strength with him. Notwithstanding the fact that Sara herself joined the argument in Peaches' favor.

It was all very confusing.

"My mind is entirely clear now, though," he stated, surprisingly. Then he caught himself and blushed. But Sara Sue missed the connotation of it. He had meant that the dullness following the accident had passed, and so any mental confusion couldn't be blamed on that. But Sara Sue thought he simply was more sure than ever of his love for Peaches Pomeroy.

Dr. McGill came soon, and said that Thornton could go home tomorrow. Sara Sue left, promising to meet him Friday noon when he arrived in Houston, and take him to the dormitories.

He hated to see her go. It left him alone again, to resume arguing with himself. He didn't like it. He missed the subtle perfume and freshness of Sara Sue. He missed the soft, sweet timbre of her voice—which made strangers know a pretty girl was coming even before they actually saw her—and he missed the delightful, fluffy, becoming little girl way she dressed.

"Damn it," he growled to himself, remembering to say "damn," "I am not at all sure that I want to marry Geraldine, or even continue the love making. But I cannot back down now. I cannot be disloyal to Sara Sue, who has helped me so much. She must not think me a quitter. I must see the courtship with Geraldine through."

CLUBS TOO ROUGH

Cairo Decides Tear Gas Bombs to Be Used Now.

CAIRO.—(AP)—Tear gas bombs will be used in future for subduing mobs and demonstrators, because of complaints that truncheons and clubs cause too many injuries.

The city police has created a special tear gas section, and men are being trained under the supervision of their Commandant Sir Thomas Russel Pasha.

Claims Homes of Future to Be of Plastic Element

BOSTON.—(AP)—Homes, automobiles and appliances of the future will be made of synthetic plastics and resins, William M. Rand, chemical company executive, predicted to Boston University students in a lecture here.

"In the next few years we shall see a greater use of plastics that will result in the lighter and faster modes of transportation as well as in homes and buildings erected from synthetic plastics and resins," declared Rand.

Pointing out that some of science's major contributions have been made during periods of depression, Rand expressed the hope that scientific discoveries and inventions may help solve some of the present-day economic problems.

The executive declared the chemical industry is still in its infancy and has only skimmed the surface of its capabilities. "America needs more and better chemists," concluded Rand.

THERE'S AN ALIBI FOR EVERY PARKING TICKET, CLERK FINDS

"I only stopped there just a second."

"I just ran in to put some money in the bank," or "I had to get a tooth pulled," is what he said. Alibis, new and old, are heard by Miss Helen Baughman, clerk in the traffic bureau at police headquarters. They arrive each day as every new crop of yellow parking tickets are turned over to the traffic bureau.

"It really was an emergency. I can get a witness to prove it."

"I was only in the store a minute. I had to get some medicine for the baby. He's home sick now and I've got to hurry. Isn't there someone I can see about this ticket?"

Glibly they are recited, these alibis—by business men, young girls and housewives, some of whom hold back tears as they pay $1 while others who reluctantly pass over a bill storm out without waiting for a receipt, Miss Baughman says.

Smilingly Miss Baughman taps a finger on the desk and waits—until the storm subsides and then informs the autoist that it just won't do any good to see anyone else.

"No, there is no way that it can be fixed," she informs the complainant. "It will still cost $1 and in the event that it isn't paid within a week it'll be a $1.25."

She warns the fellow who refuses to "dig down" that if it isn't paid three days after the week is up that a warrant will be issued for his arrest and he'll have to go to court and "tell it to the judge."

Patrolmen Claude Watts and O. D. Fair, first and second shift desk sergeants share job when Miss Baughman is off duty.

They contend that men are worse than women when it comes to parking in restricted zones, "and can furnish more alibis."

They say that women drivers are much more lawful about such things and try to observe the rules.

Patrolmen on the street, however, don't have the same charitable opinion as their brother officers at headquarters.

They are of the opinion that there are just as many women offenders and that they take advantage of their sex by thinking

COULDN'T BUY LEGS-MADE OWN

Southerner Loses Both Legs, Whittles Artificial Ones.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—(AP)—Unable to buy a pair of artificial limbs after he lost both of his legs in a train accident, Henry Falls whittled some from an old cottonwood log.

Representatives of artificial limb manufacturers who later saw the pair of wooden ones Falls made, said they were a "remarkable piece of workmanship." Falls was guided by the illustrations in a catalogue of artificial limbs he obtained. His only tools were pocket knife, rusty saw and hammer.

The best way to change the contour of the mouth is to outline it with a red lip pencil and then fill in with a Chinese brush dipped in regular lipstick.

960 MEN DISCOVER HOW TO PAY LESS FOR HOLIDAY WHISKEY!

Out of 1,000 Men—960 Found Old Quaker—Now 3 Years Old—Rich, Mild and Deliciously Smooth—Yet this Famous Whiskey Sells at a Rock-Bottom Price!

Write down the names of men you give whiskey for the holidays! Add the number of bottles you buy for your own holiday hospitality! Now—knock off a dollar for each quart—and total your savings! Here's why we make such a statement:

We went to 1,000 men, asked them to try Old Quaker—now 3 years old—and give us their opinion. We said, "Smell it! Taste it! Swallow a drink of it! Then tell us what you honestly think!"

None of these men knew the name, age or price of the whiskey he was sampling—yet 960 out of the 1,000 praised the rich flavor, the mild and mellow smoothness of Old Quaker. This confirms our belief that 3-year Old Quaker rivals many more expensive brands.

This Means Much To You

The evidence of 960 out of 1,000 men certainly warrants your making the same simple trial of Old Quaker. If you agree with their judgment about the excellence of Old Quaker, you can probably cut your bills for holiday whiskey a third—without cutting corners on quality! Act on this holiday tip today!

"That's wonderful whiskey!" is what Gus Maese, Philadelphia Tailor, said after trying 3-year Old Quaker.

"Very nice aroma; a flavor as good as the best!" exclaimed E. B. Wilson, Druggist, after sampling Old Quaker.

Geologist Says Southern Ohio Rich in Relics.

CINCINNATI, (AP)—Ohio fossil hunters are advised by Dr. Walter H. Bucher, University of Cincinnati geologist, to dig in their own back yards.

Expert Oswald Jacoby says there is no such thing as a "perfect bridge partner"—just as you may have suspected.

Soviet press reports shortage of automobiles in the United States—while over here it was thought that the shortage was in parking space.

Americans who accept decorations at the hands of "brutal dictators" may not "forswear their birthright," as Harold Ickes says, but they show very bad taste.

Safe for Differences.

WITH the totalitarian governments abroad persecuting minorities and insisting on complete uniformity, it is refreshing to turn to an American example of the opposite procedure, as represented in an address at the City club of Cleveland, a nonpartisan organization of business and professional men. Marc J. Grossman, a Jewish philanthropist and hard worker in many fine civic activities, delivering an inaugural address as president of the club, says:

"Time was when in this land we took our precious liberties casually for granted, and looked upon democracy as our birthright. But in recent times no realistic observer of the scene abroad, no one aware of the forces of disintegration operating within American life, can doubt that here, too, democracy is in grave jeopardy."

"Someone has said that to make America safe for differences is to preserve democracy, that to enforce identity is to destroy democracy."

"Here at the City club we revel in our differences. Here men of good will, of all religions, of all faiths and all creeds, assemble and fraternize, knowing that the secret of democratic success is to get together people who are different, who do not agree, to live together and work in harmony, tolerance and mutual respect."

This is a good picture of American life and ideals. It might be matched in every alert and progressive American city.

Appreciation of a Carrier Boy.

TO KNOW that good work is appreciated is one of the finest incentives to better work.

It sometimes seems that there's too much of an inclination to find fault and too little tendency to express praise.

In any event it appears timely to pass along a friendly comment on the good impression made on a subscriber by one of The News-Journal's carriers.

"I have been intending to write you for some time about a young man who delivers The News-Journal to my home," says this appreciative subscriber.

"This young man is unquestionably one of the best delivery boys I have ever known. He is not obliged to come quite a long distance back to my residence, but he has done so ever since he came on this route. Not only does he deliver the paper to the door, but he rings the doorbell and is extremely courteous."

"I think it right and proper that this young man should be known for what he is worth, and his value recognized. You really feel it is a pleasure to have The News-Journal come to your home through such courteous service."

"It is truly remarkable in these days when so many young boys want to shirk work and give you a saucy answer if you complain."

The News-Journal is glad for this expression of appreciation of the courteous service being given by this particular carrier and feels sure that the same praise is deserved by many others of the boys who deliver this newspaper to homes in Mansfield and vicinity.

Many successful men gained their first business training as newsboys—and it is reasonable to assume that the process will continue. The qualities that make a good newsboy are very much the same as those that make a good man.

Hitch-Hiker Confesses Murder.

THE case for the hitch-hiker, as sometimes presented with a Good Samaritan angle, is again weakened by an Ohio occurrence of this week, in which a hiker confesses he killed the motorist who picked him up.

Whatever may be said in behalf of the present-day hitch-hiker, the fact remains that by prima facie evidence he is a tramp and the motorist who stops to pick him up is taking long chances on subjecting himself to robbery—or possibly murder.

While hitch-hiking has been given some semblance of respectability since a number of college students have been resorting to this method of securing free transportation, it cannot be escaped that the danger involved is too great to be lightly assumed by cautious motorists.

Hitch-hiking should be further discouraged by laws against solicitation of rides and by universal refusal of motorists to pick up thumbers.

What's a Grandmother to Do?

A GRANDMOTHER whose common sense equals her devotion to her grandchildren has started something which may make a hit generally. She went recently to help take care of a new grandchild. She came home sooner than she had planned, and told her troubles to the Family Health association in her city.

"There never were any complaints about the way I took care of my daughter when she was a baby," said this disappointed woman, "but it appeared that everything I tried to do for my grandson was wrong. I didn't hold him in the approved 1939 manner when I bathed him. I didn't fold the more intimate garments in a proper manner. I didn't use the prescribed number of safety pins. I tucked him up when he was unhappy, and once I fed him out of the regular time schedule because he was apparently starving to death. Well, I want somebody to teach me how the 1939 mothers do the job. I'm not too old to learn. It's time somebody gave the grandmothers a break."

So there are to be classes with talks on such subjects as "The 1939 Baby," "Vital Answers to Questions About Health," "My Son's Wife," and so on. The 1939 grandmother, it appears, is a good sport and a live wire. No situation can down her. Still, we wish to the wise seems indicated.

Why let yourself in for a lot of work? Why not leave the babies to their young parents and save your talents for your own pleasures and activities? Today's grandmother has no need to take care of the grandchildren in order to avoid loneliness or boredom.

Keeping Step

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Politicians, getting back to Washington for the coming congressional session, seem to be in pretty general agreement that LaFollette Progressivism is done for. Phil LaFollette of course will be out of office as governor of Wisconsin at the year's end. Dispatches from Madison quote him as expressing confidence of staging a come-back at the next election but most of the guessing is contrariwise. Senator Bob holds on until the beginning of 1941. Can he win another term then? Plenty of authorities, ordinarily considered competent, express skepticism. Their story is that Phil has been stronger in the Badger state than brother Bob. Since Phil was beaten, they say, how can Bob hope to get a majority in November, 1940? True, sentiment may change in the meantime, but forecasts are predominantly to the effect that such changing as there may be will be in a direction still farther away from the Progressive label.

If the LaFollette should be permanently retired in Wisconsin two years hence it will be a development of far more than mere statewide interest; the LaFollette has been national.

La Follette Dynasty?

RATHER queer that the present LaFollette generation failed to ally their Progressive party with New Dealerism.

The original Senator Robert M. LaFollette, now dead, had sound reasons for insisting on his third alignment. When he ran for the presidency in 1924, as a Progressive party candidate, it took a microscope to discover the difference between Republican conservatism and Democratic conservatism. "Old Bob's" party stood for principles that no other party stood for. There was a reason for THAT party.

Today, however, New Dealerism is as advanced as ever Progressivism was.

Why, then, hasn't Progressivism amalgamated with the New Deal? To a certain extent it has. Senator Bob has plugged for New Deal policies. In his statewide way, so has young Governor Phil.

Nevertheless, they've preserved Progressivism independently.

The impression has been somewhat unmistakable that the LaFollette wanted to maintain themselves as a dynasty. They appeared to have the presidency in mind as an ultimate objective—it looked as if they wanted that job essentially. Old Bob assuredly did; he ran for it.

Young Bob inherited his father's senate seat. Possibly he inherited his father's presidential aspirations, too.

Young Bob is a capable chap, but there are critics who contend that he isn't his father's equal. There are those who say that Phil has more of the elder LaFollette's fire.

Anyhow, by their third party policy they've split Wisconsin three ways, to their own disadvantage.

Timely Editorial

Criminals Always Lose.

The average criminal is an efford. The chances he takes in an attempt to gain what from his standpoint may be considered success in this life are about as ill-advised as would be the chances of a gambler who would wager against the sun's rising tomorrow. The whole force of orderly society is against him. His ill-gotten gains must be paid for at odds of 1000 to 1, and sometimes even more. The amount of energy and ingenuity used in trying to outwit the law would return many times the reward if it were spent in trying to win the game in a legal way.

This, we believe, is the point to be remembered by anyone who might at times be tempted to take the so-called "easy" way especially the hot headed youth who cynically comes to believe that he can "get away with it." He cannot. And he will find that the "easy" way of the criminal is, in the long run, the hardest way of all.—Columbus Dispatch.

Roper Resignation Leaves Enigma

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Daniel C. Roper leaves a tough spot and an enigma for Washington. The answer to the enigma may come before very long and it will be worth studying. Actually that answer will forecast the future not only with respect to the attitude the administration will take towards business, but even as to the probability of a third term for President Roosevelt.

It so happened that the final forcing out of Roper came just after publication of a magazine article by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson which discussed the third term possibility, and predicted that Roosevelt would turn a little to the right in order to make certain his re-nomination and re-election.

This Johnson article aroused no end of bitter comment in Washington, not only because of his frank characterization of many of the New Dealers as "crackpots" but because of his prediction that an overwhelming flood of returning prosperity would come within three weeks after John Nance Garner became president!

Reciprocal trade treaty negotiating division of the state department.

NEVERTHELESS the appointment of a secretary of commerce is of enormous importance, despite the comparatively drab and workaday functions of the department he will head. Not by any means because of the actual acts that the secretary of commerce will perform, but because his mere selection is a hint as to the attitude of the president.

So it makes a lot of difference whether the post is filled by a man whom business men regard as a witch burner, or whether the appointment goes to a man to whom business generally feels friendly.

For some years now the secretary of commerce in a cabinet has been regarded as the counsel for business in the president's official family, while the secretary of labor has been regarded as the counsel for labor. Each has been supposed to get the best he could for his own side, with the president as the judge and jury on each point of difference.

Incidentally, there has been another function for the secretary of commerce. This was to tell business, in speeches from time to time, just what it must do to be saved, just how far it can go, etc. In this function Roper failed lamentably. He made the speeches all right, but it was just Roper talking. It meant just that and nothing more. (Copyright, 1938.)

Health Advice

Go Slowly, Avoid Falls

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

In our review of the different systems of the body which we have been conducting for the past few weeks, we now come to the humblest of all and perhaps the most troublesome. This is the locomotor system—the lowly wheels of our bodily chariot which hauls us about and sits us down and reaches out for the needs of life.

Subservient as it is, it is nevertheless a most complicated system. The different organs that go to make it up are bones, muscles, tendons, joints and the fine joint-like surfaces that are interposed between the tendons and the bones, the bursae. All of them are subject to trouble of every sort, and since they are surrounded by a most complicated network of nerves, all these troubles are intensely painful.

More than any other system in the body, the locomotor system is subject to injury. Fractures and dislocations, and torn tendons and muscles lie in wait for all of us.

Urges Go Slowly.

At this Christmas season, when we are all rushing helter-skelter about, thinking of a thousand and one things in connection with the season, it behooves us all to go a little slowly and think about falls and slips. If it has not already occurred, ice and sleet are liable to be along any minute, an especial danger to middle-aged and elderly people.

I saw a little fellow about two years old take a dive off a low terrace and fall full length on the sidewalk today as I was taking my walk.

"See here, my young buckaroo," I said, "somebody ought to watch out for you and see that you don't hurt yourself."

"Oh, he's tough," said his mother, who had her back to him at the time and seemed to resent my warnings. "He can take it."

Reset Warnings.

Yes, he's been able to take it up to now, but he may launch himself off of something too high one of these days and then it won't be so matter of course.

But people do reset these warnings. They can get along on the slippery pavements and jump in and out of their motor cars. Nothing is ever going to happen to them.

Well, I am not yet a very old man, but if anyone who resents these warnings could see me going out of my home one of these slippery mornings, he would know that I take my own medicine. I start out with my arms as far apart as airplane propellers, and with my knees bent, and step after step approach my steps. There is a railing, and on that I hang my hands and my hopes, and there I cling until I get up my courage to move down one step after another.

It may all seem ridiculous, but take it from someone who has seen a few, a fracture is no joke, especially a fracture of the hip and especially after the age of 50.

In fact, my real advice is to sit indoors these icy days that are on the way.

CULTIVATE UNITY: Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment. —1 Cor. 1:10.

TODAY IN HISTORY

The Marquis de Lafayette, following the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown and after four and a half years' service in the American army under George Washington, sailed for France, his native land, on Dec. 22, 1781.

Listen, World!

Has the World Grown Better Since That First Christmas?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

AS YOU may know, I talk with Young America each week. Or rather, Young America talks to me. Tells me its hopes and fears . . . passes on, through me, its pleas and protests.

Powerful stuff, those young letters. The frankest and most ruthless discussion this nation has ever heard from Youth. You may not approve of that frankness, but at least you can bet on this—

YOU'LL HEAR AN HONEST MOUTHFUL!

If ever youngsters had a chance to know Life-as-Is, this post-war generation has. Here, for example—if you have the courage to take it—is your chance to read one reaction to this human race of which you are a voting unit . . . a comment as to whether or not the world has become a better place since that first Christmas morn. How's this from 19-year-old Virginia Siske of Chicago?

"HAS THE WORLD GROWN BETTER? DEFINITELY—NO! This human race is still a pack of wolves . . . ripping each other's throats . . . slaughtering the weak and innocent . . . concerned only in attaining their own selfish ends. GOLD IS OUR GOD . . . NOT THE BABE OF BETHLEHEM!"

"The German slaughter of the Jews . . . the horrible invasion of China . . . the situation in war-torn Spain and, at home, our own problem of wide-spread crime and political rottenness . . . in the face of all this, can you still think that the world has grown better?"

Virginia Siske, age 19, Chicago, Ill.

"Can I still think the world's better?"

I can and I do, child. And as Exhibit A in my argument let's use—your own self. You, yourself, in your young pride and independence, your hatred of cruelty, your hunger for justice and truth, are the best possible proof that THE WORLD HAS GROWN BETTER SINCE THE CHRIST WAS BORN!

Two thousand years ago you would have been rated, legally, as a CHATTEL, with no more rights than the family cow! Even fifty years ago, in this glorious America of ours, YOUR HUSBAND COULD HAVE WILLED AWAY YOUR UNBORN CHILD AND YOU WOULD HAVE HAD NO WORD IN THE MATTER! Nor is that all. As recently as that, you would not only have been refused the ballot, but also barred from the schools which were educating your brother! And your husband could have beaten you "provided the stick used be no thicker than his thumb."

Not better! The world was so cruel, in Jesus's day, that a father could kill his own child without punishment. Ragged, starving babies played in the streets of Jerusalem, fighting with wolfish dogs for crusts of bread . . . died, unclaimed, in gutters.

There is no more dramatic episode in history than the picture of the young Christ lifting a babe in His arms, whilst He thundered at His astounded disciples, "Whoever shall offend one of these little ones . . . it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and he were cast into the sea!"

For the first time, in the millennium.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Late date: Three men—a reporter, a film actor, and a taxi driver—are sitting in a restaurant off Times Square. The cabby has been waiting for the actor a long time and the actor, a kindly fellow, has called him in for a cup of coffee before they depart for some destination on East End avenue.

It is 2 a. m. The reporter looks at his watch . . . "I'd better call the office," he says, moving for the booth near the hatchback rack.

THE cabby says: "Something happened over on 3rd avenue. One of the boys just came from there. A hack hit a car and killed a girl. It was very unusual. The girl was getting out of a third car. The car that the hack struck smashed into the girl's cab and struck her in the back. She was dead before anyone got to her."

"That's tough," says the actor, shaking his head. . . . Just then the reporter comes back from the telephone. "I gotta check on an accident. A girl was killed but they can't identify her. You be here when I come back?"

"Not I," says the actor. "I got a date. Kid that used to room with my sister. If I don't see her I can't go home, my sister would disown me."

"Okay," says the reporter, then, "Say, come on with me? You think the movies show you what life it. Come on over to the morgue and get a load of what life really is."

"I've got a late date," the actor says. . . . The hack driver says nothing, knowing he'll get a fare either way it goes.

"So long," says the reporter. "Wait a minute." . . . The actor scribbles a telephone number on a paper napkin. He calls the waiter. "Here's a dollar. Telephone this number and say that Mr. . . . will be a little late, but he'll be there."

Outside, the actor, reporter and driver pile into the hack. The driver cuts over toward Bellevue hospital. That's where the morgue is. That's where bodies are taken and placed on white marble slabs to await identification.

When they get there the reporter introduces the actor to the man in charge. "Found out who she was?" . . . "Not yet. Don't know a thing. But she was pretty as a picture. Want to see her?"

"What good would that do?" the reporter shrugs. "I wouldn't know her." . . . The actor is very excited, because all this is new to him. He says, "Maybe we ought to; I mean, let's see her."

They go back inside and the man in white removes a shroud from a form so waxen and white that it might be marble.

A Farmer's Diary

The Grouch.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE man was a stranger to me, then he went inside. I slowly followed up the path, and rapped. His wife, with a shy nervous manner, invited me to enter. I greeted the farmer, busy with the separator, but he only grunted. I saw two boys about seven or eight crawl from behind the cook stove. "Are these all of your children?" I asked.

"No—the two older boys left home more'n a year ago," she answered, hesitantly.

Their father snorted. "Yes—those two good-for-nothing muckmoxes just waited till they were old enough to help a little and then ran off. These two have to go to school every day, and yet they want a calf or a pig for their own, and expect me to furnish feed for it and give them the money. I'll give 'em the pleasure of caring for pets, all right," he added, grinning. "We'll spend the money when we get it—aint that right?"

"This talk about the government helping the farmers burns me up. Then fellows in Washington don't know no more about running this country than I do. They never helped me none."

"Of course, they have a big job," said I, mildly.

MUSICA'S NOTE CLEARS HIS KIN

Suicide Confession Message
Puts Blame for Swindle on McKesson Head.

Musica's double life has been traced to 1929. At that time Coster had been president of the nation's third largest drug firm for a year and Musica, by some mysterious means, was having the perjury cases against him dropped in general sessions court.

Always Took Blame.
In taking the full blame, Philip Musica was repeating himself. He had done the same thing in 1909, after he had involved the family's imported foods business in cheese smuggling charges, and in 1913 when all male members of the family had been arrested for a $1,000,000 swindle with a Human Hair company. On both occasions, Philip Musica, the family schemer, playing the "Big brother" role by absolving his father and brothers and going to jail alone. After naming all others implicated in the crimes except members of his family.

It was said that his suicide note named others implicated with him in the McKesson and Robbins swindle, but not his brothers. The brothers, however, were so deeply involved that they were held under $100,000 bonds.

Police Inspector Michael McDermott joined federal and state investigators on the case today hunting evidence in the murders of Joseph and Barney Cohen, poultry dealers in 1932. Their murders were a month apart. McDermott asked federal agents for all known facts on Coster-Musica, for although the idea was fantastic, to him, he said he could not overlook the fact that the Cohens were in a position to know that Coster was Musica, and that the motive for the murders may have been to silence them.

German Protest Lashes Ickes As 'Impudent And Insulting'

(By Associated Press)
BERLIN—A strong German protest over a speech by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes attacking dictators was submitted to the acting secretary of state by the German charge d'affaires in Washington, it was learned today in foreign office circles.

These headquarters said Germany regarded Ickes' statement as "impudent and insulting."

Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' newspaper Der Angriff yesterday accused Mr. Ickes of seeking war and said:

"Instead of keeping order in his own land, he conducts anti-German agitation which is aimed at nothing else than war. Ickes is frankly the evil spirit present in American policy. If it is now represented in Washington that Ickes spoke as a private person, we must ask: What shall we think of a democracy in which a minister never is in agreement with the chief of state?"

Der Angriff continued the attacks today, this time in connection with a request attributed here to Ickes that no American mails be shipped aboard German ships.

Under the headline, "Ickes shoots with mailbags," the newspaper said:

"This barking man will shoot against Germany with mailbags!"

We are trembling! By the way, travelers from the United States gladly take German boats because of their cleanliness and reliability.

"For both these facts Herr Ickes apparently has little understanding — but this is already known from the Coster-Musica (drug company) scandal."

GIVE CHRISTMAS BASKETS TO 50 NEEDY FAMILIES

Senior High Students, Faculty Contribute 75 Bushels of Food and $75 in Cash.

At least 50 needy families of students attending Senior high school will be provided with Christmas dinners through the annual Christmas Basket drive conducted at the school this week by the Social Science Service club. Students and faculty members of the school contributed 75 bushels of food and $75 in cash for the baskets. Names of the families who will be provided with baskets were submitted by Jesse Beer, principal, and George Sherman of the commercial department. Money contributed will be used to buy meat for each basket, and toys. Some toys also were contributed by the students. Baskets for contributions were placed in each home room at the school. Assisting the Science club was Miss Ruth Dunham of the school faculty, who was in charge of preparing the baskets for the families. V. D. Coe is adviser of the service club.

Aid Yale Seal Drive.
The school this year raised $25.69 in its annual Christmas health seal sale. The money will be turned over to the Christmas Health Seal Sale committee, and will be used in the fight against tuberculosis. The sale at the school was conducted by the Social Science Service club.

A round table discussion on the problems of crime and crime prevention was presented over the public address system at the high school Tuesday morning as a part of the home room period. Taking part in the discussion were Doris Peat, Geraldine Frank and William Fishback.

"The Lonely Hearth," a one-act play, was broadcast to the study halls only. Wednesday morning by students of Drama 2 class. Students in the play were Mary Blair, Marjorie Buel and Marilyn Wright. The play was directed by Earl L. Heasley, dramatic instructor at the school.

Plan Alumni Jamboree.
Plans were recently completed for the first annual Alumni Jamboree, a dance for all students

Book of the Week

"PORTRAIT OF A SCOUNDREL," by Eden Phillpotts (Macmillan: $2).

EDEN PHILLPOTTS has as good ideas as anyone writing in his field in England. He rarely turns out a book that is not based on a situation of merit, and (one must add) he rarely develops the situation as it could be developed.

Take "Portrait of a Scoundrel," which he publishes today—

The idea of the book can be told here, since the reader learns it almost on the first page. It is simply that one of three brothers in England decides to murder the three people who stand between him and the family estate and the enormous fortune which goes with it. The murderer is a physician, the brainiest one of the family, a deep student of rheumatism, as cold as a clam.

Irwin is his name, and his plan is to do three perfect murders. He must start with the infant son of Sir Harry Temple-Fortune. It becomes necessary to murder the and graduates of Mansfield high school to be held Dec. 30 in the gymnasium.

The dance will be semi-formal and will be held annually for all former students of the school. A feature of the event will be a five-act floor show which will include acts by Jerry Brightbill, Jack Saylor, Ruby Schippo, Edna Waddell and Eugene Gump.

Plans for the event were made by a committee made up of students and faculty members. Music will be furnished by Jerry Horton and his band.

The Christmas vacation season at Senior high school began last night with a school dance. "The Mistletoe Frolic," which was held in the gymnasium. The dance was sponsored by the A Cappella choir, and music was furnished by Harold Doda and his orchestra.

Members of the German club held a Christmas party Tuesday night at the home of Richard Nixon, club adviser. German songs were sung and German games played. Robert Roth, club president, presided.

The Junior Hi-Y club will make a tour of the Reformatory Friday afternoon. Members of the Senior club have been invited to make the trip with the junior group.

Another is that rather than work out a careful plot, the author decided (apparently) to so bury his reader in words that he will overlook inconsistencies. Whatever the explanation, there are at least 20,000 words of padding in the book. These can be skipped without the loss of a thing, even atmosphere.

Irritating as these considerations are, this reader was even more chagrined by the attitude of mind which led Mr. Phillpotts to assume that his readers would without exception be noncompoos. Perhaps the English and French detectives go blindfold to work. Perhaps Mr. Phillpotts does too.

KANSAS CURBS SWIRLING DUST

Only Local Storms Forecast for Area During Winter, Spring Months.

(By United Press)
MANHATTAN, Kas. — Dust storms which have swirled out of the southern great plains area for the last four years probably will be limited to local storms this winter and spring, R. I. Throckmorton, head of the agronomy department of Kansas State college, predicts.

Throckmorton, who recently completed a survey of the old dust bowl area of southwestern Kansas, Southeastern Colorado, northwestern Oklahoma and the Oklahoma Panhandle, believes that with reasonable precautions on the part of farmers, coupled with the past work in growing sorghums, the "big dusters" that swept eastward to the coast, are unlikely to recur.

Because of the heavy growth of sorghums, the heavy weed growth which resulted from early spring listing and a good wheat crop on summer fallowed land, the area subject to soil blowing is far less than at any time in recent year," Throckmorton reported.

"There are, however, a great number of local areas where soil blowing will occur."

A good supply of fall and winter moisture will help in preventing blowing, and deep listing was recommended for the edges of wheat fields where grasshoppers killed the wheat. Soil blowing starting on these barren edges can rapidly destroy the entire field, Throckmorton warned.

The condition of wheat in the area surveyed is "relatively serious," Throckmorton said.

"Wheat plants have failed, on a high percentage of fields, to develop a satisfactory root system," he said. "This condition is perhaps due to a combination of a loose seedbed, a rapid drying of the surface soil after seeding, and to abnormally high temperatures in September and October."

In many fields wheat is rooted so loosely that it will be torn up and destroyed if sheep and cattle are grazed on it, Throckmorton said.

Freed From Jail To Lead Rescuers To Wrecked Ship

JUNEAU, Alaska. — (AP) — A trapper-guide, released from a city jail drunkenness charge because he knew the perilous Fairweather country, led 16 shipwreck survivors toward Lituya Bay and ultimate rescue.

The guide, Nels Ludwingson, had served six days of a ten-day sentence here when he was released so he could accompany Pilot Sheldon Simmons to the scene of the stranded motorship Patterson.

Simmons returned two survivors who needed medical aid, here in his plane. He left Ludwingson with the others.

Ludwingson immediately organized the remaining survivors into a hiking party, and the men set out on their 30 mile trek to Lituya Bay.

Today two navy planes from the Sitka base were to take a landing party of coast guardsmen from the Cutter Cyane at Port Althorp to establish a camp at Lituya Bay.

Goofy 1938 Puts Sweet Reason Back On Its Throne

One comforting thought on the events of 1938—they did follow the rules of logic. Not only the big, world-shaking ones, but the bush league occurrences showed a sweet reasonableness comforting to reporters gone gaga with the dizzy sequences of recent years. Frinstance:

WHEN SALLY RAND loses a bet, she pays off. So it was only logical for her to stand on her head after being convicted of scratching and biting candid camera fans. Sally had bet she would be acquitted.

EVEN THE DANCERS junked the crazy old big apple and went on to more reasonable things. Here a couple of U. of Penn boys interpret that triumph of logical rhythm—the jam session.

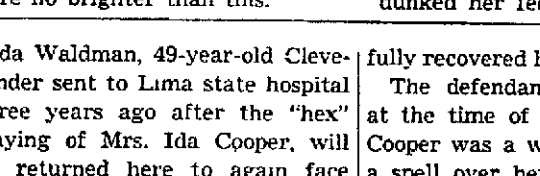

THIS IS HOW a St. Louis employer used his logical faculties when faced with labor picketing. The picket doesn't seem very embarrassed but the "just married" gag was tried elsewhere too.

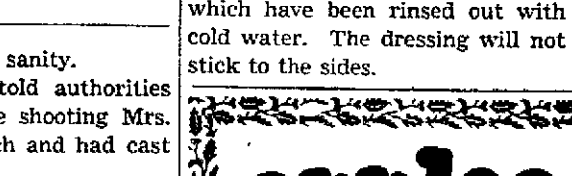

GERMAN THOROUGHNESS provided this idea of impressing safety rules on auto drivers. The logic is that careless pedestrians are no brighter than this.

LONA ANDRE shot 156 holes of golf in 11 hours, doing for publicity the marathon feat a Chicagoan did for a bet. Then she did the logical thing—dunked her feet.

WILDA WALDMAN, 49-year-old Cleveland sent to Lima state hospital three years ago after the "hex" slaying of Mrs. Ida Cooper, will be returned here to again face first degree murder charges. Common Pleas Judge Alva R. Corlett said today Mrs. Waldman had fully recovered her sanity. The defendant told authorities at the time of the shooting Mrs. Cooper was a witch and had cast a spell over her.

SYSTEM WARNS AGAINST 'BEATS'

Cleveland Hotels Decide on Teletype to Plug $50,000 Yearly Losses.

(By United Press)
CLEVELAND—The hotel business has enlisted the aid of science in an effort to combat "skippers," "kitters," "paperhangers" and other types of unwelcome and dishonest guests.

Members of the Cleveland Hotel association have installed an inter-hotel teletype system to foil the chisellers.

When a suspicious guest with a smooth manner checks in at a hotel, the visitor's description, approach and suspected racket is sent over the teletype system to the allied hotels, which then check their records.

"Cleveland hotels have been losing from $30,000 to $50,000 a year because of these crooks," said Eugene J. Kelley, president of the association. "We have had to do something. The hookup is in conjunction with the telephone company and may be linked with the police station later."

Kelley explained the various types of unwelcome guests familiar to hotel operators.

"A 'kitter' starts a series of bad checks at one hotel, gets more cash than his bill, moves to another hotel and cashes another check to cover the next one ahead of it at the bank," he said.

"A 'skipper'—another type of pest—comes in with a prosperous-looking bag, lives in luxury for a week, signing checks with abandon, and then leaves suddenly. His bag, left behind, contains only phone books, chunks of cement, or other objects.

A "paperhanger," the hotel man explained, is just an old-fashioned hot-check writer or a check raiser.

ORDINANCE BANS MINORS AT BARS IN MILLERSBURG

Persons Under 18 Not to Be Allowed in Cafes; Council Establishes Penalty.

MILLERSBURG—Minors under 18 years of age will be prohibited from entering any place of business here where beer, wine or intoxicating liquors are sold as the result of an ordinance passed by Millersburg council.

All owners, operators or their employees, who permit persons under 18 years of age to be in their place where such is sold, and each person under the specified age found therein shall be fined not less than $5 and not more than $25, the ordinance says.

Public opinion, aroused by the frequency of such places by children, especially those taken into such places by their mothers, motivated passing of the ordinance. The proprietors of local dispensaries were also in favor of passing the ordinance.

Firemen Insured. Council also reinsured their 12 volunteer firemen for another year with the Mutual Benefit, Health and Accident Association of Omaha, Nebraska, through their local representative, Clarence Williamson.

The policy provides payment of $1000 for loss of life; for total disability, $100 a month for one year; partial disability, $40 a month for two months; and hospitalization for one month at a cost not to exceed $50. Any and all of injuries must result when the fireman is going to or from a fire or during services at the fire.

Three new firemen are to be named to the department to replace those unable to serve. The remaining nine are C. C. Geib, Theodore Geib, Harry Kinkie, chief, Uhl Stempel, Carl Mast, Jerry Craft, Gordon Barton, Richard Dix and John Lemmon.

Killed Wife, Burned Body In Furnace, Husband Says

CORPSE SAWED INTO PIECES, POLICE TOLD

Los Angeles Man Confesses He Murdered Mate With Hatchet Blows.

(By International News Service) LOS ANGELES — One of the most gruesome murders in Los Angeles history, the dismembering and burning of a 48-year-old woman, has been confessed by her husband, police said today.

They accused William Spinelli, 58, diminutive Italian, of slaying Mrs. Rosa Spinelli, 48, with a hatchet on Dec. 12 and then burning her body, piece by piece, in a small backyard incinerator.

Spinelli's asserted confession to the crime came after 24 hours of grilling by police who were aided by his son, William Spinelli, jr., 19.

The boy had been convinced his father was guilty and had openly accused him of slaying Mrs. Spinelli.

After Spinelli had been shown more bits of evidence pointing to his guilt, police declared, such as charred bones, teeth, bits of dress material and buttons, he went into a faint which was believed to have been a sham.

Opening his eyes as he came out of the "coma," Spinelli muttered: "I'll tell you everything."

Struck With Hatchet.

The gist of his asserted confession is that his wife had threatened to leave him for another man, and during a quarrel that followed, she struck him over the head with a hatchet.

"I kicked her," officers quoted him as saying. "She fell to the floor. I grabbed the hatchet and hit her twice over the head with it. That killed her."

"Then I went out and got a sharp saw and sawed the body into pieces."

"When I figured it was dark enough, I began taking out pieces of Rosa's body and stuffing them into the burner . . . Billy came home and asked me what I was doing and I told him I was burning some branches. He went to bed and when I was sure he was asleep, I resumed burning the body. I finished about 10 o'clock that night."

Prior to the asserted confession, the son faced his father in police headquarters and flatly accused him of slaying Mrs. Spinelli. The little Italian steadfastly denied his son's charge at that time and declared the younger Spinelli probably had killed her.

Spinelli is a former bootblack. His wife was a maid in a Beverly Hills home.

Wife Considers Vizeletty's Wish For Burial At Sea

NEW YORK—(AP)—The widow of Dr. Frank H. Vizeletty, 74, eminent lexicographer who died yesterday, today considered carrying out one of his last requests—to be buried at sea.

Funeral services for the man who edited the Funk and Wagnalls "New Standard Dictionary" for many years will be conducted tomorrow morning. Two weeks ago Vizeletty was stricken with pleurisy and pneumonia.

Dr. Vizeletty came to the United States from England in 1891 and devoted his life to a study of words. He authored a score of books, mostly concerned with the English language, its usage, idiom and its slang. Long before he became an American citizen in 1926, Dr. Vizeletty was a staunch defender of the American language and the American accent.

He minced no words in declaring that American speech was superior to the British. During radio talks he advised his listeners to "talk American" and avoid the affectations of Oxford and the English "public school" products.

The renowned lexicographer regarded English spelling as monstrous and continually advocated its simplification.

Up and Down THE STREET

The "wedge" haircut can be worn up or down, a flick of the comb effecting the change. The hair is not thinned out on top, but a triangle of the bottom layer is cut out two inches up at the nape of the neck. This reduces bulk and disposes of straggly ends. The six-inch long sides and uncut back locks are brushed to the top of the head and curled.

Two interesting contributions to the Muster-Cheers were items of food. The Eagles lodge made a contribution of one case of oranges and 100 pounds of mixed nuts, while the typing class at Senior high school turned their mistakes into profit for the Christmas baskets. The instructor, Miss Beatrice McLees, and pupils agreed that for every mistake they made in typing, pupils should bring one potato. Whether they made a lot of mistakes or were merely generous, the class collected five bushels of potatoes for the Muster-Cheers baskets.

The Boy Scout election, held annually to select scouts to "run" the city for one day during national scout week, is becoming more like a regular political campaign each year. Candidates for the various offices now have turned to advertising to get scouts to vote for them. Six candidates on the National ticket yesterday ran an advertisement in the "Hyphonerian," Senior high school paper, urging the scouts at the school to support them and the same group also is passing out cards in an effort to win votes in the primaries to be held Jan. 3.

Although closed to hunting, fishing and boating, the Charles Mill reservoir restrictions do not include skating, and so the project is paying its first dividends in recreation this year. Good skating ice covers hundreds of acres on the man-made lake, and many Mansfield and Ashland winter sports devotees are taking advantage of the Mittell site.

Pictured was a man explaining to his exasperated wife why he had brought home a large truck equipped with a snow plow attached to the front—"Well—I went into buy a snow shovel and one thing led to another—" the card reads.

NEW POLICY

Japan Ready to Abolish Concessions in China.

TOKYO—(AP)—Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye declared today that Japan was prepared to help China abolish the foreign concessions and extra-territoriality, the system of special privileges enjoyed by some foreigners in China for nearly a century.

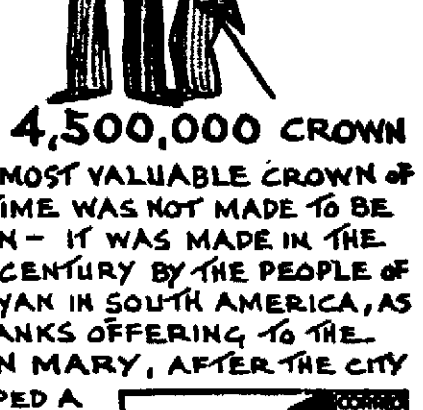

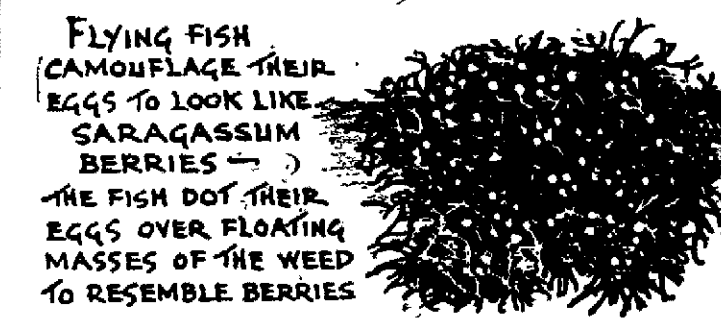

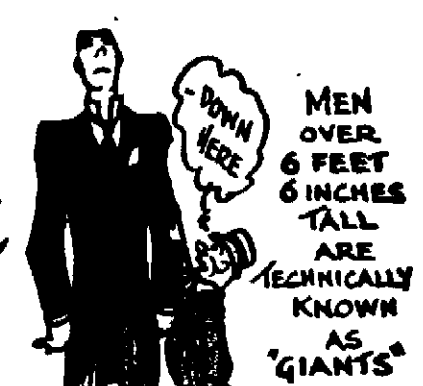

In a formal statement on the future of Japanese-Chinese relations, the premier concluded: "Japan not only respects the sovereignty of China but is prepared to give positive consideration of the question of the abolition of extra-territoriality and of concessions and settlements, matters which are necessary for the full independence of China."

By China the premier manifestly referred to the state Japan already has announced she expects to emerge from her current conquests.

POLICE KILLER DIES IN CHAIR

Figuli, Slayer of Columbus Detective, Goes to Death Clutching Prayer Book.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Stephen Figuli, his lips pressed in a fine, hard line and his left hand clenching a prayer book, died in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary last night for the slaying of Robert Cline, a Columbus detective.

The 21-year-old Cleveland youth was the last member of a bank robbery gang that shot it out with police in a furious gun battle during a raid on their hide-out here last Feb. 4. Three of the gang and Cline were killed in the fight.

Showing not the slightest trace of fear, Figuli marched into the death chamber and sat down in the chair. He glanced at witnesses, including five uniformed city policemen, then looked at the Rev. D. P. Holloway, pastor of the Cleveland Pentecostal church.

While Mr. Holloway read from a Bible, Figuli sat quietly as guards strapped him tight and placed a hood over his white face and long brown hair that fell across his brow. His fingers were clenched, and the left hand held the little prayer book.

Then Mr. Holloway stepped back and said, "Goodbye, Steve," but not before the current smashed through the youth's body. He was pronounced dead at 8:08 p. m., by Prison Physician George W. Keil. The book still was crumpled in his hand as witnesses filed out.

Mrs. Susanna Figuli, the youth's mother who knelt and prayed in Gov. Martin L. Davey's reception room yesterday while waiting to beg the executive for clemency, stayed in the office of an attorney during the execution.

The latest recommendation was received in a telegram from Washington by Crestline business and civic leaders who are sponsoring the movement for the new building.

A federal grant of $75,000, to include the cost of a site for the building, was awarded Crestline for a new postoffice more than a year ago, and an additional grant of $31,000 was made later.

CHEY MYSTERY PHONE CALLS IN PLOT TO KILL 4 OHIOANS

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Two mysterious telephone calls and the reported discovery of a poisonous substance in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kramer in suburban Madeira today gave new impetus to an investigation of an attempt to asphyxiate four members of the family.

City Chemist Otto P. Behrer said analysis of contents of a jar in the basement disclosed a substance that would yield deadly fumes if brought into contact with acid or water.

The only possible ordinary use for such an acid, he said, would be for fumigation. Mrs. Kramer, who with her husband and two daughters was asleep when aroused by the fumes early yesterday, said the house had not been fumigated for at least 12 years.

Detectives Thomas Faragher and Walter Hart of the homicide squad said they were "convinced" that the gas came from the jar and was "not due to accident."

Alice Kramer, telephone company employee, and her sister, Mrs. Alene DeHass of Cleveland, told police of telephone calls received Sunday, while neither was available to answer. Later effort to contact the person indicated no one knew anything about the call, Miss Kramer said.

U. S. Committee Favors Different Crestline Location. CRESTLINE—Hopes for a new postoffice building were brightened today when the postoffice committee of the U. S. treasury department recommended the purchase of a site at the southwest corner of Seltzer and Cross streets for $7,000 for the proposed building.

The site, which is only 200 feet from the present postoffice, was offered by Arcana lodge, F. & A. M. The lot is 100 by 150 feet. The committee previously had recommended a site at Bucyrus and Thoman streets.

The latest recommendation was received in a telegram from Washington by Crestline business and civic leaders who are sponsoring the movement for the new building.

FEDERAL WORKS PROGRAM FACES SHUTDOWN FEB. 7

Harrington Seen as Hopkins' Successor If He Becomes Commerce Secretary.

(By International News Service) WASHINGTON—Demands for emergency funds to continue WPA will precipitate a row in congress before WPA Administrator Harry I. Hopkins' expected appointment as secretary of commerce is confirmed, it appeared today.

Disclosure of Deputy Administrator Aubrey Williams that WPA faces a shutdown by Feb. 7, brought a flood of congressional proposals for revamping the big relief agency.

President Roosevelt, it is expected, will be forced to seek an emergency WPA appropriation of $600,000,000 or more almost immediately after congress convenes Jan. 3. WPA thus will be the first major problem on which congress probably will act.

Since the resignation of Daniel C. Roper as secretary of commerce becomes effective tomorrow night, informed sources said Mr. Roosevelt probably would announce Hopkins' appointment to the cabinet post on Saturday.

In Line for Post. These same sources listed Col. Francis C. Harrington, assistant WPA administrator and chief engineer, as Hopkins' probable successor, with Deputy WPA Administrator Aubrey Williams relinquishing his WPA duties to give all his time to his position as director of the National Youth administration.

Colonel Harrington, an army engineer and close friend of Hopkins, attended the University of Virginia before entering West Point.

Rep. Woodrum (D) Virginia, declared that if WPA funds are exhausted as indicated by Williams, the agency will be guilty of violating the Woodrum amendment, which provided $1,712,000,000 for various relief agencies, to last until Feb. 28.

"Congress not only intended that the fund last until Feb. 28, but the law provides it," said Woodrum.

Under the Woodrum amendment an exception was made "upon the happening of some extraordinary emergency or unusual circumstance." It provided that expenditure of the entire fund could not be advanced more than a month. President Roosevelt was given power to cite an emergency but was required to report to congress.

Both Democratic and Republican leaders agreed that emergency funds would be provided to avert a complete WPA shutdown. But the method of spending promised to be a big issue.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Criticism of Roosevelt Children Aimed at How They Make Their Living

—By WESTBROOK FEGLER

NEW YORK—Mrs. Roosevelt sounds again the recurrent plea that members of the president's family be allowed to live their own lives, and the patient insinuation that they are damned if they do and damned if they don't.

According to the Washington copy, Mrs. Roosevelt says the American people, sooner or later, will have to decide whether they want in the White House the sort of family whose children will make no effort to earn their own living, and in which the wife will renounce all previous interests and obligations and become totally dependent upon the husband for the period of the presidency.

To borrow a gag from the ideology talkers, Mrs. Roosevelt oversimplifies the case.

Nobody has criticized any of the Roosevelt children merely for endeavoring to make a living, and Mrs. Roosevelt herself has been treated with courtesy in the pursuit of her previous obligations and of her new ones. However, it is not likely that another such family will come to the White House, so the people probably will not have such an issue as she states, even though it be conceded, momentarily, that she states it correctly.

The first little gripe that assailed the White House family after the first inauguration had to do with some rather spirited motor driving by some of the boys, who, in a very short time, accumulated a bridge hand of cards from the traffic officers.

Naturally, being sons of the President, their difficulties with the law received extraordinary prominence, which had to be accepted as one of the penalties of place.

Later, at the very hour when Mr. Roosevelt was making a speech in which he referred bitterly to persons who ride in carriages and drink expensive wines, a young man bearing a remarkable likeness to one of his own sons, while riding in a carriage on the French Riviera, poured champagne into the ceremonial plug hat of the local mayor as that official bowed in greeting.

It was later explained that there had been a mistake in identity, but people naturally marveled at the coincidence which placed two young Americans, so much alike, in the same European city at the same psychological moment.

However, even if the first, erroneous identification had stood, the American people, and many of the French, too, would have enjoyed the spontaneous, inspired mischief of the act and would have held nothing against the youth or his father.

It was Jimmy, who courted the sharpest criticism, and, in his case, it was no mere question of making a living, but that question plus the question of how. As Mrs. Roosevelt herself says, there is an ethical obligation not to profit from the association, and Jimmy admitted that, in one case, he asked that "especially good care" be taken of a visitor to the President-Elect "because it is important to me in a business way."

After that, Jimmy was taken into the White House in an influential, confidential post—a move which gave formal approval to conduct which would seem to violate the ethical obligation which Mrs. Roosevelt herself recognized. Extend the same approval to the whole White House family and the whole Administration, and what kind of ethics would we have?

The present White House family has raised much new business, created precedents in personal conduct by members of a president's family, and it is not unnatural that these matters have been discussed.

Certainly, Mrs. Roosevelt herself has not been the conventional Mme. President, but, even aside from the White House propaganda, she has had the most courteous and considerate press of all.

—Advice—
Tells Couple To Go Ahead And Marry

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
The young man in whom I am very much interested is 27 years old, and I am 25. We became good friends during the summer and in the past month have talked of marriage. He is in the building business, and I have a fairly good position. He has a little money saved and so have I.
The question is: Do you think, if we started in on a small scale, we would be wise to marry now instead of waiting until he is better established in business. Or perhaps you think it best that we keep on seeing each other occasionally, and marry later? Sometimes we "live in hope and die in despair." We are both college graduates. Do you think we can work it out?
MARJORIE.
Your problem is simple. I should certainly advise you to marry. You're both college graduates, and therefore have the best possible equipment for making a success of marriage, even if things don't always run smoothly. Your letter is very sensible, and as you are willing to start together on a small scale, I know you'll make a go of it. Best of luck to you.

Salt should never be added to stews, soups and boiled meats until after they are cooked. If put in at first it toughens the fiber of the meat and takes out the juices.

Wife Preservers

If you have a room that is hard to heat, get a small gas or electric heater for auxiliary heat. They are not expensive and do not take up much space.

Today's Fashion

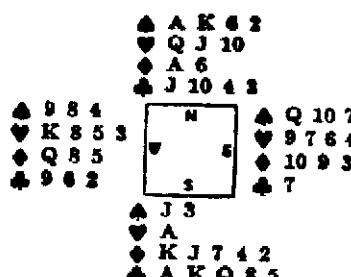

Enlivening the daytime picture.

By VERA WINSTON
There's nothing like sleek inky-black with a touch of white to enliven the daytime picture, especially for the business girl. Here is a grand frock, a model with a smart two-piece effect. We like it especially well because the handsome gilet can be removed and replaced with a more tailored pique front. The net gilet has lace medallions incrustated. There is a double ruffle at the neck and also at the wrists. The frock itself is of black flat crepe. The double-breasted line buttons snugly over the waistline and has four self covered buttons. The skirt is gored with two gores back and front.

SUIT CONTRACTS SAFER
Not always, but as a general proposition, suit contracts possess an element of safety which does not belong to No Trump contracts, especially when a good trump fit has been found. The main reason, of course, is the ability to ruff a loser of one hand with a trump in the opposite one. Slam contracts particularly emphasize the element of safety factors, as the total points at stake are so great that a player is seldom justified in risking them unduly to gain the slightly smaller total paid by a No Trump bid as against a suit one.
After 1-Diamond by South here, North's call of 2-Spades showed the great strength of the pair. Seeking for a fit, South revealed his clubs at three and North showed the fit at 4-Clubs.
Since the pair was using the (Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

Blackwood convention, South was now ready to employ it and did, with 4-No Trump, the bid which asks North how many aces he holds. North replied with 5-Hearts. As a response of 5-Clubs would proclaim no aces, 5-Diamonds 1 ace, 5-Hearts 2 aces, 5-Spades 3 aces and 5-No Trump all four aces. North with his answer of 5-Hearts showed that he had two of them.
South next bid 5-No Trump, which by the player who had made the 4-No Trump call asks for the number of kings. North's 6-Diamonds showed possession of one king. South knew this would take care of his losing spade, so bid 7-Clubs without a worry. Notice that 7-No Trump would have been beaten because a diamond trick must be lost.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

What is the finest bidding of this deal, if East and West are aggressive bidders who try their best by diamond bids to keep North and South from their maximum contract?

Little Touches For Yule

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Ingenuous little touches are the ones that spell home and make a real Christmas. A tiny dinner favor, a special flourish to the decorations, a bit of handmade (and edible) gadget to hang on the tree—these are the things that delight us. Really clever ideas cost but little, and that little is rather in time than in cash.
Popcorn balls go fancy when they have nutmeats inside and are wrapped in colored, transparent paper or cellophane and tied with ribbon. The recipe calls for five quarts seasoned popcorn, one and one-half cups pecan meats, two cups sugar, one-half cup dark corn syrup, one and one-quarter cups hot water, teaspoon vanilla, tablespoon vinegar and one-third teaspoon salt. Dissolve sugar and syrup in hot water and cook slowly without stirring to 260 F. (firm ball stage). Add remaining ingredients (except nuts) and cook to 264 F. (or until a solid but not brittle ball is formed in cold water). While syrup is cooking, crisp popped corn in oven. When syrup is cooked, remove popped corn piping hot from oven and sprinkle nutmeats on top. Pour mixture lightly over popcorn and nut mixture, turning slightly with a wooden spoon. Rub cooking oil very lightly on hands and press balls together with a light cupping of the palms to shape.
Snowflakes from crystallized rice are edible and pretty, especially as a garnish for ice cream, puddings and the like. One cup cooked white rice, whole and dry grains, one-half cup water and one cup sugar comprise the makings. Boil sugar and water until syrup spins a thread. Drop in the rice. Stir with a fork until rice is thoroughly coated. Drain on paper.

Salt Nuts at Home.

Plates and dishes of good things to eat within every hand's reach are an integral part of Christmas enjoyment. Home-salted nuts are mouth-watering. For favors, make cornucopias of colored cardboard and fill with salted nuts. Sprinkle nuts evenly with salt in the portion of two teaspoons of salt to one pound shelled nuts. If peanuts or almonds are used, they should be blanched before salting. Drain nuts thoroughly and put layer in a frying basket. Plunge into hot fat which has been heated to 360 or 370 F., or until a cube of bread will brown in a minute. Cook until nuts are golden in color; avoid over-cooking for the color of the nut deepens on removal from hot oil. Remove from frying kettle and allow surplus oil to drain back into kettle; turn nuts on absorbent paper to drain. Transfer to fresh absorbent paper and sprinkle with salt while hot.

Christmas elves are easy to make and good to eat. Use a pulled fig for the body. Insert a wire through top and bottom. Cover the wire with pitted dates for the arms and legs, raising for the hands and feet. Attach a marshmallow head by means of a toothpick neck. "Blonds" have the tops of their heads dipped into dark corn syrup and then into toasted coconut.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

AS DICKY said that he knew "loads of people" in South Jersey, I felt my spirits lighten perceptibly, for with his resourcefulness and ingenuity back of me, I was sure that I could outwit Philip Veritzen.

"I'll tell you presently how it's going not only to help me, but to solve my whole problem," I told him. "But, tell me: Do you know anyone of them well enough to ask them to stage a deception for you?"

"There's a magazine editor in a secluded country home down there by the ocean that would stage anything short of a murder for me. And I'm not so sure he wouldn't try that once. He knows I'd do the same for him any time he gave me the office."

"Then everything will be all right, I am sure," I said. "By the way, I didn't tell you that Philip Veritzen is coming up to the city this morning, breathing fire and brimstone in his determination to find us. Miss Whitlock last night answered his insistent demand over the telephone by telling him that Mary and I had gone to South Jersey to the home of friends by the seashore. She said—by my direction—that we had gone in such a hurry that I had not left my address, and that until I sent it, she could not tell him where we were."

"It was the only thing you could do," Dicky commented, "but I sure will be gall and wormwood and all the rest of the bitter herbs to old Phil. However, that's not the question at present. Now, this pal of mine. In the first place, he hasn't a telephone—hates all modern things. In the second place, it's harder to get into his place—for a stranger—than it is to crash the party gates. I'll take a run down there tonight, but him wise, give him a letter which you will write to Miss Whitlock, apologizing and giving your address, and saying you will be back shortly, and expressing your joy at Mary's improvement—you know the dope—and which I will ask him to mail tomorrow afternoon. She will get
